It's Grace, Fischer, Brooks in a runaway

By NANCY HILLS

THE VOTERS had a clear choice and they made it. Incumbent Mayor Jean Grace took 62 percent of the vote, easily defeating challenger Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo, who polled 38 percent in an election that saw a 51 percent voter turnout.

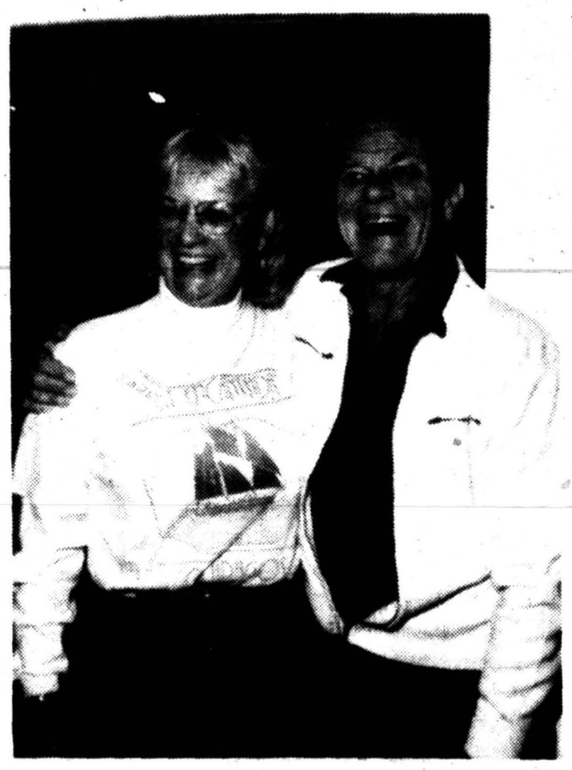
The final tally: Grace, 1,178; Laiolo, 701.

In the three-way city council race, incumbent Robert "Bob" Fischer, a retired Carmel Police officer, gained the most votes of any candidate on the ballot, retaining his council seat with 1,487. Barbara Brooks, a retired school teacher and former Carmel Residents Association president, became the newest member of the council, tallying a substantial 1,218 vote count.

Carmel Planning Commission chairperson and Realtor Carla Ramsey was third with 707 votes.

The city will hold a swearing-in ceremony at 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 17 at the south end of the Torres Street property (AKA Handley), corner of Torres Street and Third Avenue.

Grace, who was often at odds with Laiolo during council meetings, had harmony on her mind after the vote count came in.



CELEBRATING BIG wins in Tuesday's Carmel City Council election were (left), incumbents Mayor Jean Grace and City Councilman Bob Fischer, who both won smashing victories to reclaim their seats on the council and (right), Barbara Brooks, who exulted when told that she had just won a four-year seat on the city council, at parties for the candidates given by friends and supporters. (Mac McDonald photos.)

'I think it says something for a new generation of voters, it is not the old guard telling people what to do anymore. The first order of business is to get on with the healing process.'

— Jean Grace

"I think it says we've got a fresh new start with a harmonious council. I think this council can work together," she added.

Grace said she saw the results as a "big" statement that the people of Carmel support the purchase of open space and other amenities, such as the beach walkway.

Laiolo had opposed the purchase of the Handley property and Hodges property as well as construction of the beach walkway.

"I think it says something for a new generation of voters, it is not the old guard telling people what to do anymore," Grace said, adding that "the first order of business is to get on with the healing process."

The R-1 is one of the top priorities and perhaps the city should discuss forming a design review commission separate from the planning commission, Grace said.

"We should let the commissioners interested in doing design review do design review and the planning commission can concentrate on implementing the general plan and doing some future planning for the city," she said.

Laiolo, who gave up running for a second term on the council to seek the mayor's position, stated that the "only certainty is that one of the basic elements of a democracy is that people have a choice and I think that was what this campaign was about. I am very pleased and proud of my campaign committee and the quality of the campaign we ran."

She said of her campaign tactics, such as the radio ads she had commissioned that implied that Grace would annex Castroville, were perhaps "a bit extreme, but sometimes one has to catch people's attention by the extreme."

"I took that from the goal-setting workshop where Grace said that she would like to see annexation (of the sphere of influence) by 1995," Laiolo said.

The sphere of influence includes Carmel Point, Carmel Woods and other areas immediately adjacent to city boundaries.

In her past four years on the council, Laiolo said she was most proud of "being able to be consistent in my thinking and voting and dealing with the major issues. I'm pleased and proud I studied all the issues in depth before making a decision, always keeping in mind what is best for the residents of the community and those who work here."

Laiolo said she plans to remain active in community affairs and politics, but had no specific plans as yet.

FISCHER WAS pleased and surprised at his success.

"I think they are saying they like my independence and individuality and that they have confidence in what I am doing," he said.

Fischer was elected in 1986 along with Laiolo and Clint Eastwood as mayor.

He said he hoped to get the subordinate unit ordinance completed during the next council meeting. It had been continued during that last council session. He also hopes to get R-1 zone design review changes in place soon.

He lamented that no one had picked up on his idea of a child care center at Sunset Center, but said he will continue to pursue the idea.

"I still care about a solution to that problem and I'm going to look into that," he said.

Fischer sailed through the campaign spending the least amount of money and receiving the least amount of campaign rhetoric aimed his way.

While he said that he believed everyone fought a hard fight, things got "a little too nasty for me and I had to stay away from it."

"I think there were a lot of lies and deceptions," he said.

Brooks was also very happy, stating that "I think on election day the real important people are the voters" and the candidates should take a back seat.

"I think they like my style — to bring the groups in town together," she said. "I have a deep appreciation for those that voted for me and a deep respect for those who did not."

Brooks used a quote attributed to Charles Brower to sum up her victory. "Few people are successful unless a lot of other people want them to be," she said.

As for concerns that her votes will be dictated by the Carmel Residents Association, Brooks said "anybody who thinks that's the case hasn't been paying attention to what I've been doing for the past few years. I have no constraints there whatsoever. I'll meet with anyone."

She added she believed the "anti-CRA guest editorials" in The Pine Cone created a backlash.

The new council will be able to work together, she said.

"I think we have an excellent council and we can all work together amicably," Brooks added. "I'm going down to Irvine for the League of California Cities training for new council persons in May and I hope to get valuable training."

Brooks has listed the R-1 zone and out-of-scale houses as one of her major concerns and recently stated she was interested in the 45 to 50 percent open space requirement discussed by the planning commission. She has also served on the ad hoc city preservation committee.

"I think it will be good to come together about the R-1. I want to come from the side of open space and find some numbers we can all work with," Brooks explained.

'One of the basic elements of a democracy is that people have a choice and I think that was what this campaign was about.'

— Elinor Laiolo

Ramsey offered her "congratulations to all the winners of the election and I wish them good luck. I respect the will of the community and those that voted. I appreciate the people who voted for me and supported me and I look forward to the new leadership of the elected officials," she said.

She added she believed all the council candidates had the same theme.

"We all wanted to preserve Carmel."

When asked if she would stay on the planning commission, Ramsey said "I haven't even thought about it."

"I would not change anything I've done. I've often been in the minority vote (on the commission), and I have truly run as an independent candidate," Ramsey said. "I think it is difficult to run as an independent."

(Editor's Note: The following poem about Hatton Canyon was written by 16-year-old Carmel High School sophomore Jeannine Trudeau. She said she wrote the poem to help out student efforts on a clean-up day for the canyon set for Saturday, April 21, all part of this year's Earth Day activities. "Someone said someone should write a poem so people can see how special the canyon is — so I volunteered," says Trudeau. She is a member of Carmel High's environmental group SMART (Students Making A Right Tomorrow). Asked if she writes poems regularly, she was quick to reply, "I have a whole locker full!")

The Reason to Save It

Hatton Canyon is filled with beautiful emotions. Reproduction of animals, insect.
The victory of a cross country runner.
A victory that's within himself.
Families being bonded for its beautiful view through their windows.
Memories of their children playing behind their homes and walks they took.
Hatton Canyon is filled with talents of artists, photographers, poets. Destroying Hatton Canyon takes away talent, views and memories
With a highway here, how can people enjoy a traffic-filled highway? What moments of magic can be made on it?
No couples in love with themselves or families could take a picture of it. Nature like this is for us.
Why should others take it away?
It breaks my heart.

Age of deceit

Dear Editor:

For some time, we have heard considerable rhetoric about the Carmel Residents Association. Be this association good or bad, it has backed Jean Grace for mayor.

Out of the blue, comes a spiffy new organization called the Carmel-by-the-Sea Resident's Association.

By adding three little words, this lofty group with a grand membership of at least one, takes out a full-page ad in support of Eleanor Laiolo. Surely, an obvious ploy to mislead voters.

How quaint. How cunning. How childish.

Politics have often been dirty, but when local candidates revert to cheap hooliganism, we enter a new age of deceit. Too bad.

Just asking

Dear Editor:

If the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway were two lanes in each direction and if the proposed widening of the existing highway were two lanes in each direction, how can the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway carry more traffic than the proposed widening of Highway 1?

Services rendered

Dear Editor:

In response to the many inquiries concerning the participation of The Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of The American Red Cross in the aftermath of the Northern California earthquake. The following information may be helpful.

The generous residents of Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur and the southern portion of Pebble Beach donated a total of $282,000 to disaster relief. A large amount of the donated funds were specifically designated for specific geographical areas.

The Carmel Chapter forwarded these funds along with their designations to the Western Operational office of The American Red Cross. All of the money was used as designated. The Carmel chapter did not retain any funds whatsoever for administrative and other costs incurred. All $286,000 was used for direct earthquake disaster victim relief.

In addition, residents of the area came forward to volunteer to help. Our chapter trained these volunteers as shelter managers, counselors, damage assessment personnel, cooks, nurses and office personnel. These carmel area volunteers worked mainly out of our adopted shelter in Watsonville and served all of Santa Cruz County.

Our board of directors is proud of these volunteers, the donors and the merchants who made our response possible.

In addition to disaster services, there are numerous additional services offered by our chapter on a day-to-day basis:

Disaster preparedness: liaison with the Armed Forces; provision of blood products and services in cooperation with CHOMP; first aid classes: cardio-pulmonary resuscitation instruction for students and instructors; water safety instruction; HIV and AIDS speakers bureau; HIV Peer Education Program; Visiting Pets for the Elderly; loan closet of medical sickroom equipment; such as wheelchairs, commodes, walkers and canes; community referral services; scenic drives for the elderly; volunteer training programs for community outreach; communications command center; Vial of Life distribution program; free blood pressure screening weekly clinics and free ambulance services.

Helping seniors

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the 1,100 or so senior residents of Carmel, the majority of whom live alone, it was reassuring to read David Leland's article in last week's Pine Cone about the new Healthcare Connections program to help these seniors to remain in their own homes in case of illness or temporary disability.

Linda Geisenburg is familiar with the community and with the resources available in times of crisis. These include such services as Meals on Wheels, homemaker assistance, visiting nurses, telephone monitoring, Hospice referral, day care and respite arrangements. In addition to making the proper referrals, Healthcare Connections would be responsible to follow-up on the implementation of each individual plan and to make corrective changes when necessary.

If or when in-home support no longer sufficed, Ms. Geisenburg would help the senior and his or her family or conservator to decide upon an appropriate residential care facility or nursing home.

More and more communities are providing "case management services" as the above functions are called, particularly in areas with a large number of older persons. According to Carmel's General Plan of 1988, our median age of 50 is twice as high as the national average.

It is hoped that financial help will become available to help this new program to succeed and also that inexpensive office space in Carmel may become available.

Distorted fact

Dear Editor:

As an old friend of the Martinez family, I would like to set the record straight.

The maudlin sentiments as expressed in the letter to the editor March 17 about the little cottage on 17th Street and Carmelo are not only inaccurate, but very hurtful to the former owners. They loved the little cottage, termites, mice and all, but there was no way that it could be restored.

As to the truth about the history of the little cottage, Xavier Martinez never lived there. His wife Elsie (Pellie) lived there with a friend who bought the house in 1932. The idea that Pellie and Martie entertained Jack London, Lincoln Steffens and John Steinbeck in the little cottage is preposterous. They were friends of London and Steffens and doubtless partied with them but that was long before the little cottage was ever built.

Pellie was not "Holland born." She was born in Canada.

Preservationists who distort the facts will find that their cause loses.

Continuation strategy

Dear Editor:

Have you noticed that traffic flows easily, both north and south, between Monterey and Carmel, on Highway 1? Four lanes, divided or connected, adequately handles all vehicles flowing between our two cities. So, four lanes, either on Highway 1 or on the projected Hatton Canyon Freeway, would carry the same volume of traffic, local or transient.

If you will visualize a "continuance" of the Monterey-to-Carmel highway, south from Ocean Avenue to the Carmel River, with clover leaf/under-overpass, as appropriate, at Carpenter, Ocean, Carmel Valley Road, and Rio Road, you can actualize the wisdom of the "Highway Continuation Strategy" versus the "Yet To Be Created Freeway Project"; and, thereby readily solve this 30-some-year-old dilemma of "where shall we put the road?" "Continuing" the present highway does assure continuing effectiveness of operation and maximum traffic-flow. (Pragmatic criterion no. 1.)

Secondly, we simply must be frugal, as well as wise. Therefore, we must consider the cost; namely, $34 million for Hatton, or $9-plus-million for "Continuing Highway 1." (Pragmatic criterion no. 2; i.e. lowest cost.)

Environmental issues and bureaucratic legalese are diversive impediments of a secondary nature. The HCF project would take years to complete; whereas, "Continuing Highway 1" is available quite soon.

"Continuing Strategy" works best, costs less and can be completed soonest. Nothing is forever! So, should future traffic-flow increase beyond the "continuation" capacity, then, at that time, appropriate expansion of mobile facilities will be activated.

At this time, I say, "Let us get on with it and 'continue' the four lanes of Highway 1 from Ocean to River, with no further delay." Say you so, as well?

Cultural demise

Dear Editor:

How fortunate we are to finally have someone speak out about the demise of Carmel's Sunset Cultural Center. I refer to Patrick Franklin's column "Reprise" titled "Is that why they call it Car-mel?" In The Herald of March 24th.

He certainly sees the carefully orchestrated plan of the Carmel city administration to divert the emphasis from cultural activities to recreational activities. As I recall the residents of Carmel voted a bond issue to purchase Sunset School as a cultural center; how can the city ignore the wishes of its voters.

Thank God there is someone who sees what's happening to Sunset Cultural Center and isn't it too bad that the cause couldn't be taken up by the Carmel press rather than having to rely on The Herald to carry the ball. Come on Carmel residents, let's get behind this before it's too late.

Carmel's version of 'Mr. Deeds' goes to Washington

By DAVID LELAND

ARMED WITH a federal document damning Caltrans' plans for the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway, Carmel freeway activist Noel Mapstead last week descended upon the nation's capital.

Meeting with assorted federal officials from the U.S. departments of Transportation and Interior, Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), Council on Environmental Quality and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Mapstead blasted plans for a $34 million freeway through the canyon.

'I walked away feeling very optimistic that if the legal choices are not made on the side of the environment, the matter will be referred to the president.'

— Noel Mapstead

Joining Mapstead was David Larkin, a former Carmel attorney who now practices in Phoenix, Ariz.

"I walked away feeling very optimistic that if the legal choices are not made on the side of the environment, the matter will be referred to the president," said Mapstead, representing the local chapter of the Sierra Club during the two-hour meeting. "The outcome (of the meeting) is that the agencies are on notice."

The principal thrust of Mapstead's visit was to convince the FHWA, which is the lead agency in the process, that a supplemental draft be prepared for the yet-unreleased environmental impact statement.

Originally slated for public review in April, the release of the EIS has now been moved back to sometime in early May, according to Harold Peaks, FHWA project development specialist.

Federal officials took a different view of the proceedings than Mapstead, indicating that the Carmel artist has no idea what is contained in the final EIS.

"I think there was some sense that the meeting was not held at an appropriate time," said Camille Mittelholtz, an environmental analyst with the Department of Transportation, which maintains an overview of the nation's environmental laws. "I don't think anything came of it."

In truth, the main piece of evidence — a letter from the Department of Interior — is indeed slated to be a part of the final EIS.

Dated March 26, the letter finds fault with wetland acreage that will be lost with Caltrans' preferred plan and, instead, recommends Highway 1 be widened to accommodate traffic problems in the area.

"After review of the document, we cannot concur that there are no practicable alternatives to Alternative 1C (a freeway through Hatton Canyon)," wrote Wayne S. White, Department of the Interior field supervisor. "A new highway alignment through Hatton Canyon would severely impact wildlife habitat in the undeveloped canyon."

Mapstead claims that sentiment in Washington concerning the peninsula is one of dismay.

"Everyone back there is horrified about Carmel when you explain what's going on," Mapstead said. "The federal officials are more concerned with the environment than local officials."

During the meeting, Mapstead presented officials with a list of 24 concerns with construction of the freeway. Last year he journeyed to Washington with a list of only seven problems with a freeway through Hatton Canyon.

Peaks said that while his agency is reviewing Mapstead's concerns, most of that information has already been addressed in the final EIS.

"So far everything that he has come up with we had already mentioned to our field offices to look into," he said.

Meanwhile, Mapstead scoffs at the idea of a May release of the final EIS, which he believes is riddled with legal holes.

'A new highway alignment through Hatton Canyon would severely impact wildlife habitat in the undeveloped canyon.'

— Wayne S. White

— Department of Interior

"They can't release the document if it can't stand up to stringent litigation," he said.

In addition to requesting a supplemental EIS, Mapstead has asked for a full accounting of money spent on the preparation of the final EIS.

"Our tax money is paying for this," he said.

PB service district approaches fire dept. merger plan cautiously

By DAVID LELAND

PEBBLE BEACH Community Service District directors last week cautiously accepted a draft report that seeks to consolidate fire departments in the Greater Carmel Valley Region.

Without offering to enter into an official agreement with the county Local Area Formation Commission (LAFCO), which compiled the 62-page document, PBCSD asked for further study on the thorny issue.

'I'm strongly opposed to consolidation; we're trying to be independent here.'

— George Murphy

"This is an opportunity for us to take stock and see what is available," said Dick Andrews, PBCSD general manager, adding that LAFCO will officially receive the report at its April 17 meeting in Salinas. "(But) we want to be careful that local government services don't become more fragmented than they are now."

Consolidation would encompass fire departments in Carmel Valley, Mid Carmel Valley, County Service Areas 39 and 43, Carmel Highlands and Pebble Beach.

Pebble Beach currently contracts with the California Department of Forestry, which operates fire equipment owned by PBCSD.

Part of a regional fire network that also operates both CSA 39 and 43, this year's CDF contract amounts to about $1.4 million, Andrews said.

The draft report, prepared by Hughes, Heiss & Associates, points to several advantages if consolidation is realized.

For example, by calling on more volunteers and having Mid Valley Fire Department become headquaters, about $400,000 can be converted into savings or higher service levels, according to the report.

In addition the draft report cites the ability to expand prevention and education programs, have a fire system that cannot be confused by jurisdictional boundaries, improve decision-making on major calls and guarantee special district augmentation funding.

But George Murphy, PBCSD director, accused the makers of the report of bias.

"I'm strongly opposed to consolidation; we're trying to be independent here," he said. "The report makes CDF look bad and the option for regional consolidation look better (than it is). I've never had a complaint with CDF services."

CDF representatives attending the April 6 meeting did not offer an opinion during the gathering.

Murphy suggested that CSA 39, located near the Carmel Gate, become aligned with the Monterey Fire Department and CSA 43, located on Rio Road, become a part of Mid Carmel Valley or Carmel Highlands fire departments.

He also lashed out at the special district augmentation fee system, which he claimed is not equitable for all areas.

PBCSD Janice O'Brien added that she did not believe it would be prudent to rely on Pebble Beach residents, many of whom are retired, to provide volunteer service as suggested in the report.

"I'm skeptical of volunteers in the forest due to the scope of the population," she said.

AND WHILE directors appeared to take a dim view of consolidation, they may be swept along in the movement.

Earlier this month, Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department filed an application with LAFCO seeking to consolidate itself with CSA 39 and 43, but not Carmel Valley Fire Department.

Moreover, the Carmel Highlands Fire Protection District Board has indicated that it may also file an application with LAFCO to merge with CSA 39 and 43.

'This is an opportunity for us to take stock and see what is available.'

— Dick Andrews

If the two county service areas, which are run by CDF, are merged into a larger district, it may become impractical for the agency to serve Pebble Beach on an economic level, Andrews said.

He added that if consolidation is realized, LAFCO can mandate that Pebble Beach become a part of the jurisdiction, Andrews said.

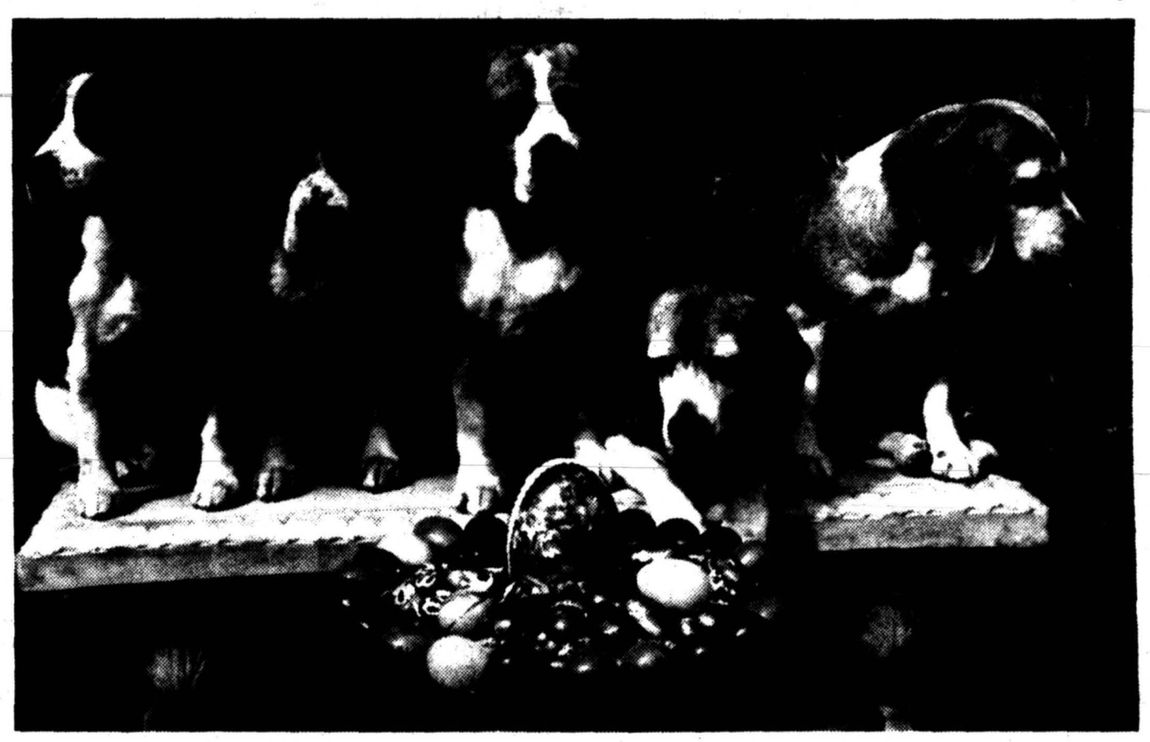
Politically, it is impossible to override the majority, he said.

"Our problem is the same one we have with the county," he said, referring to the relatively small number of residents living in the forest. "There aren't enough people here to guarantee political clout."

That, he added, effectively rules out a referendum on the issue.

"If the valley wants a regional district, it doesn't matter how we vote," Andrews said.

As part of its recommendation to LAFCO, PBCSD said that study groups should be established to further study the issue of consolidation.



The hunt is on

WITH ALL the excitement over the Carmel elections, you've probably darn near forgotten that Easter is just around the corner haven't you? Well, these five champion Starcrest beagles haven't forgotten. They either look ready to dig into those Easter eggs or else fall asleep. What? You've never heard of the Easter Beagle, or in this case, the Easter Beagles? Owned by Carmel's Herman Mueller (you may have seen him walking all five at once at various places around Carmel), they are (left to right): Duke, Mister, Oro, Royal, and Dirndl, and range in age from 2 to 13 years old. Happy Easter!

Earth Day activities planned

CARMEL AREA residents are invited to join the Earth day 1990 Celebration on Sunday, April 22.

In recognition of Earth Day, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will host a leisurely community walk beginning at 9 a.m. and the Torres Street Property. From there the group will proceed to Mission Trail Park, Mountain View entrance.

The next stop is scheduled at 10 a.m. at the Hodges Property where residents can participate in tree planting. The walk will conclude at the beach walk at Eighth Avenue.

Earth Day events are being planned throughout California and the U.S. according to Carmel City Forester Gary Kelly. Earth Day began nearly 20 years go when 20 million Americans joined together in a spontaneous demonstration of concern for the environment. Their collective action resulted in the creation of the Environmental Protection Agency, and passage of new laws to protect our land, water and air.

Despite the efforts of the past 20 years, the health of the planet has continued to decline. Earth Day 1990 is a local, regional and national attempt to draw attention to our environment and of the spaceship Earth.

Join in celebrating the beauty of the community and of the urban forest on April 22. For additional information, please call the Forest and Beach Department at 624-3543.

Census forms to Carmel delayed

ABOUT 60 percent of the census forms to Carmel residents have been delayed because the town has no home mail delivery.

According to Rick Tooker of the Carmel Planning Department, the forms will arrive sometime between April 17 and April 21. The forms should be returned as soon as possible.

The census bureau had worked with the post office to identify actual Carmel residents, but had identified only about 40 percent during the first go-around.

Red Cross sponsors first aid classes

THE CARMEL Chapter of the American Red Cross sponsors regular first aid classes at the chapter house located at Eighth and Dolores.

Upcoming classes include:

- Saturday, April 21, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Monday and Wednesday, May 14 and 16, 6 to 10 p.m.

Classes are eight hours and cost is $20 per person.

Soviet Union trip a dream come true for CHS teacher

By DAVID LELAND

A TRIP to the Soviet Union is the stuff that dreams are made of for Carmel High School teacher Peter Lyon.

In fact, Moscow is about the last place he thought he would ever visit — the last time he was in Euorpe, the Continent bordered on World War III.

'It's a peace and friendship kind of thing. After 35 years I get a chance to use my language.'

— Peter Lyon

"I never thought it would come to this," says Lyon, who adds that in 1957 when serving in the U.S. Army in Germany, the troops anxiously watched as Soviets began to invade Hungary.

The last message his company heard from Budapest was "The Russians are coming; for God's sake, send the bombers."

While obviously planes carrying nuclear weapons were never sent to the Soviet satellite country, events some 30 years later have gone beyond Lyon's wildest dreams.

"The Soviet Union is one of the most exciting countries going through one of the most exciting times in the 20th century," says Lyon, referring to recent structural changes in the Soviet government leaning toward democracy and a new openness.

Lyon is privileged to be one of four peninsula high school students and five teachers now in the Soviet Union for a two two-week stay ending April 22.

The trip is sponsored by The New Forum, a Carmel-based peace organization. Other Carmelites involved in the trip are teachers Sherry Blair and Morris "Buzz" Joseph. From Pebble Beach are students Zachary Alinder and Jeff Arnold.

"It's a peace and friendship kind of thing," says Lyon, who studied Russian at the Army Language School (now Defense Languange Institute), in 1955. "After 35 years I get a chance to use my language."

The group has spent the past six weeks in orientation meetings and studying Soviet culture.

They will spend the first week visiting Moscow schools and then split into two groups to go to other cities. Last year the two groups went to Kiev in the Ukraine and Tallinn in Estonia.

The travelers will take special flags and posters and 100 giant redwood seedlings to help celebrate Earth Day April 22.

Lyon expects to bring his experiences back home to enrich students' lives.

"As a teacher I will be able to bring back a feel for what is happening," says Lyon, who has been teaching at the high school for 31 years. "We're all riders on this earth together. That's what I expect to bring back and all the wonderful stories that go with that."

CARMEL HIGH School teacher Peter Lyon will leave this Saturday for the Soviet Union, a trip sponsored by The New Forum, a Carmel-based peace organization.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year, including the following:

• Tuesday and Thursday, April 17 and 19, 6 to 10 p.m.

• Saturday, May 19, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Church seeking donations for new pipe organ

By DAVID LELAND

CHURCH OF The Wayfarer officials are relying on the church's rich Carmel history when recruiting pledges for a new pipe organ.

The instrument, which will cost about $300,000, consists of more than 1,800 pipes and will replace the current organ which has sat in the abbey since the 1950s.

"The church has always seen itself as a big part of life in this town and the peninsula," says the Rev. Charles Anker. "We thought that people in the community would want to contribute. The organ presents this community with a magnificent instrument and a rich musical resource."

'The church has always seen itself as a big part of life in this town and the peninsula. The organ presents this community with a magnificent instrument and a rich musical resource.'

— Rev. Charles Anker

Anker cited Church of the Wayfarer's involvement in the Carmel Bach Festival since its inception as an example of such commitment to the community.

For example, in 1976, as an appropriate part of the nationwide bicentennial celebration, Bach Festival Maestro Sandor Salgo brought a chamber group and choir members to the church and played to an overflow crowd.

The organ slated for installation in May of 1991 will be built at the Schoenstein & Co. factory in San Francisco, where it will be assembled for initial voicing.

It will then be disassembled, shipped to Carmel and installed. Specifications call for three keyboards plus pedal. There will be 30 sets of pipes, compared to the current organ's 10 sets.

"The specifications are designed to give the organ the capability to play the complete range of organ literature," says Anker. "The primary objective is to enhance the musical support of our worship services; secondarily it will be an excellent concert instrument. The threefold increase in size is not to make the organ louder but to provide variety for the organist to exploit."

Anker adds that his church has the only acoustic organ in the community, which has a purer sound and is favored by erudite keyboardists.

"A real pipe organ is more exciting to play," he says.

Schoenstein & Co. is the oldest and largest organ factory in the western states. The firm was started in Germany in the mid-19th century and in 1877 came to San Francisco.

To make room for the new organ the chamber which extends from floor to ceiling at the north end of the sanctuary balcony must be extended at the balcony level.

This will extend the front of the entire balcony about 6 feet to just over the back of the second pew from the rear, thus there will be no loss in pews in the sanctuary.

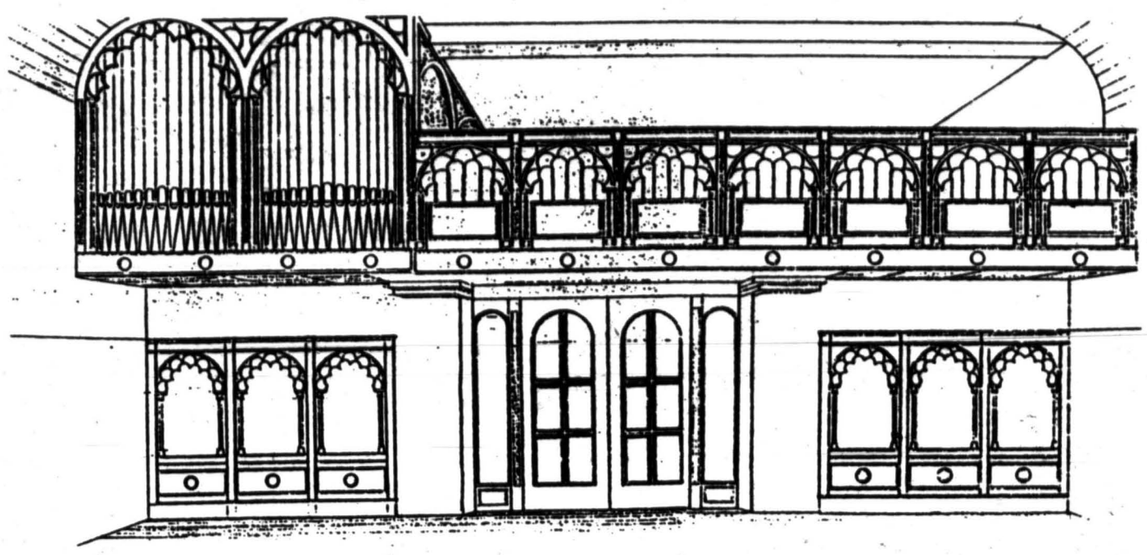
ALL THIS, of course, costs money, which is where church officials hope the community will lend a hand.

"By our best estimates we are still short of total funds needed for both organ and structural work to the choir loft by $40,000 to $50,000," says Ann Welchner, worship committe chairperson. "We think we have a plan that will be exciting for all of us and accomplish our goal at the same time without financially hurting anyone."



SHOWN HERE is an architect's rendering of the rear of the sanctuary at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel after completion and organ installation.

Church officials are asking people to "buy" organ pipes.

For example the trumpet stop costs a total of $11,895 and contains 61 pipes at $195 each.

Welchner said payment is not needed immediately, but a commitment to contribute is necessary by April 30.

If additional funding cannot be garnered, up to six stops, or a total of about 459 (25 percent), of the organs pipes may have to be omitted.

Those wishing to make donations may send payment to Church of the Wayfarer, P.O. Box 2205, Carmel CA 93921.

AN ELEVATION of the two-garage project discussed in the environmental impact report on parking facilities at Sunset Center. The planning commission will take comments on the draft report 3 p.m., Wednesday, April 18 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

Planners to hear input on Sunset Center garage EIR

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL Planning Commission will conduct a special meeting next week to take and make comments on the draft Sunset Center Parking Structure environmental impact report recently received by the city.

The commission will meet at 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 18 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

The commission will not take comments on the merits of the project, only comments about whether the report addresses all the impacts.

Also on the agenda is the commission's review of the general plan amendments and ordinances for R-1 zone.

Those changes include descriptions of Carmel character, working on open space requirements and reinstating consideration of solar access, privacy and not boxing in neighbors with new homes and remodels. The item was continued from a March meeting.

The garage report, which can be obtained at the planning department, selects as the preferred project two smaller garages located on the north and south ends of Sunset Center rather one large garage on the north end.

A garage at Sunset Center has long been discussed as an answer to the city's parking problems.

Commissioned in 1988, the report was to study the impact of a 500-space garage at the north end of Sunset Center, but to also investigate and dicuss other projects that might meet the city's goals.

Environmental Science Associates, Inc. of San Francisco, who compiled the report, recommended:

- A three-level, 270-space garage at the north end of Sunset Center along Eighth Avenue. The garage would replace the current pay-for-parking lot currently in that location. A portion of the top level would be used as a park and the garage would not be higher than San Carlos Street. The garage would be terraced or stepped to reduce the visual look on the Mission Street side.
- One 337-space two-and-one-half floor parking structure at the south end of Sunset Center along 10th Avenue, no higher than San Carlos Street grade and stepped to reduce the visual impact. The struture would replace the bungalows and current parking.
- Removing the central parking lot at Sunset Center and changing it into a "public plaza and entrance linked to both garages as well as to San Carlos Street." A wing would be added to the south end of Sunset Center to balance the loss of the bungalow space.

Concerns have been expressed by some that the plaza would eliminate easy access to the theater for the scenery, props and music instruments.

Another concern was handicapped parking should be provided close to the entrance.

The spaces provided by the both garages could be divided between half all-day parkers and half hourly parking and the spaces would be pay-for-parking spaces.

The report states that most all-day parkers would not pay for parking if free parking is still available in the streets. That would mean all-day parkers would intrude into the residential district. To avoid that, there should be a "change of policy," perhaps a residential parking sticker program put into place.

Carmel Planning Director Diane White explained the city will take written comments on the draft report until May 6 and the planning commission will conduct a special meeting April 18 to take comments.

The consultants and city will respond to the comments as part of the report. Once that is completed, it will go to the city council for certification. Certification of the EIR is in no way an approval of any particular project, but simply states the document is acceptable and answers certain questions.

Scholarship hopefuls

TANDY TECHNOLOGY has selected CHS senior Adam Stiles and mathematics instructor John Durein as two of 100 national finalists in its scholarship program. Both were nominated by the high school earlier this year for their outstanding academic accomplishments in the area of math, science and computer science. Stiles, who plans to attend UC San Diego to study pre-med, will be awarded a $1,000 scholarship if he is selected. The senior, who carries a 3.9 GPA and is active in water polo and swimming, said he will use the money for his education, if selected. Durein, who could be awarded $2,500, said he will use the money to purchase a computer for the math department and to help purchase materials for a new math course. Winners will be selected by the end of the school year. (David Leland photo.)

Week Three

WHILE THE players who play for money were getting ready to start their season, the players who play for the fun of the game, as well as the aches and pains on Monday morning, were completing week three on Sunday.

Running of the Bulls: Bully III 22 - GRAC Pots 0.

Take notice, don't get the team from Bully III mad. After being shut out last week, they took their vengeance on the GRAC Pots, with a decisive win, Bully scored three or more runs in every inning.

Bell Tolls Early on Highlands: Bells Bombers 7 - Highlands Inn 3.

Bells Bombers scored all their runs in the first two innings. Then played a tight defense the rest of the game to best the surprisingly tough Highlands Inn team.

Sports Barn Rolls Myers: Sports Barn 11 - Myers Painting 1.

The Sports Barn jumped on Myers early with a six-run first inning, then coasted to an easy win. Sports Barn continued to shine in the field.

Sharks Nip Sade's: CYC Sharks 9 - Sade's Slammers 8.

A five-run fourth inning gave the CYC Sharks just enough runs to hold off Sade's. Sade's scored three runs in their last at-bat, but fell one short, in a very entertaining game.

Energizers Energy: Energizers 19 - CRAPS 4.

In a game between two unbeaten teams, the Energizers showed their power, taking charge of a game that was close after four innings and pouring it on in the last three, knocking a good CRAPS team from the ranks of the unbeaten.

D.C. Defeats London's: D.C. Defenders 8 - Jack London's 7.

The Defenders remained the other unbeaten team in the most exciting game of the day. The Defenders pushed home a run in the bottom of the ninth to pull the game out. Jack London's hung tough in a game that saw them come back and tie the score four times.

Murphy house makes another first: council designates it historical

By NANCY HILLS

IT WAS a first in more ways than one.

It is doubtful that 17-year-old M. J. Murphy had any thoughts of making history when he constructed a small Queen Anne-style clapboard cottage for his mother and sisters in 1902. The small cottage with a double-hipped roof was the first house built by a man many believe is Carmel's most important builder. It was a seed from which Carmel grew.

On April 3, 1990, the house achieved another first when, by one of the last acts of the former city council, the house became the first structure designated historically significant by any Carmel City Council.

'The clubhouse idea is very important because it would be a shame if it became an office and unavailable to the public.'

— Enid Sales

The new title does little to change its status legally — it does not prevent demolition or restrict changes to the structure, a condition that prompted Councilman Jim Wright to call Carmel's historical and architectural significant building process "a paper shield."

It does permit the Save the First Murphy group to apply for some government grants to save and restore the structure.

The group is interested in moving the home to public property, where it could be used for a public purpose. Proposed locations include the northwest corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue, Piccadilly Park, Mission Trail Park, Sunset Center and the Hodges property. The council eliminated the Torres Street (Handley), property and Forest Theater. The council formed a committee to review the sites and make a recommendation.

The cottage is currently located behind the former Emil Norman Gallery on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. The house has been declared uninhabitable by the city building official and the new owners of the property want to demolish it and build new retail space.

Ben Lyon, a member of the group, is interested in seeing the house turned into a "clubhouse"-type gathering place for residents and visitors.

Lyon harks back to the days in Monterey when the restaurant Sancho Panza was a place people gathered to meet, play chess, cards or just exchange ideas.

"You could go and meet interesting people — it was a very enjoyable place," Lyon said.

Of all the expensive things you can buy in Carmel "you can't buy" something you can get in almost any other town in the United States, Lyon said.

"That is a place where you can go to have lunch and talk with a friend and listen to music without someone trying to hustle you out."

If the house is used to fill that gap, he said, "it must be run to fulfill the needs of people in town," he added.

"We are talking about a place to play chess, bridge, read the newspaper," explained Enid Sales, the organizer of the Save the First Murphy group. "The clubhouse idea is very important because it would be a shame if it became an office and unavailable to the public."

Architect Brian Congleton, who has donated his time and expertise to the project, told the council that the house will be restored to its original style, including replacement of the double-hipped roof. That roof was was removed years ago.

As it stands now, Congleton said, the house does not resemble the original "pristine" example of a post-Victorian cottage, but once restored, it will "look as it was."

But it is not the architecture that makes the house really worth saving, Congleton said, but because it was Murphy's first structure in Carmel.

"Both as an architect and builder, Murphy was significant," he said.

Congleton said that if it comes to it, they may have to find a temporary site to store the house.

Sales said that they have raised $4,000 of the $10,000 to $15,000 needed to move the cottage.

The house movers, she said, plan to lift with a crane the approximately 800-square-foot structure intact over the former gallery. To accomplish that, that house will be set on T-shaped flange beams.

"We will take everything but the little porch in the back, which was added on later, and the red brick chimney, which we obviously cannot move," she said. "We will take the mantel"

In the meantime, the group is waiting to hear the recommendations of the committee and continue raising the money they need to complete the move.

PADRE CORNER

Going, Going, Gong

LAST THURSDAY night, Carmel High School hosted its second annual talent contest. However, this time the great brass gong was present.

In the spirit of the great Gong Show, the unknown comedian, Jeff Walker, made several appearances, and the sound of the gong could be heard throughout the gym. Acts such as a duo of rappers, "Vinegar and Oil," and the "Hula-Ho's," starring Peter Komposh, Steve Watts, and Lance Scott won the sour grapes awards.

Charity LeGros won the talent show for the second time this year with the song When You Wish Upon a Star. This talented young singer has a great future in store for her.

Second place went to Thomas Hawkins with a beautiful guitar solo, and third place went to Brandy Lierman and Lars Lindgren as the "Stylin' Sinatras." Their lip-sync act, New York, New York, brought tears of laughter to everyone's eyes. An encore of their act was even requested.

The success of the Gong Show-theme talent show will hopefully start a new tradition at Carmel High. Leslie Sincoff, ASB social commissioner, feels, "Activities such as this talent show will promote more spirit and participation in school functions."

The Associated Student Body is planning more activities for the remainder of the school year. Two more dances, in addition to the Junior-Senior Prom, are being planned, while various committees are working on school improvements. Longer lunch hours, the smoking problem on campus, longer library hours, and more social activities involving school spirit are among the topics of discussion.

Earth Week

APRIL 16 through April 20 represents Earth Week 1990, and Carmel High School, with the help of SMART, Students Making a Right Tomorrow, is hoping to make this week of activities successful.

SMART, an organization in its first year at Carmel High School, has made a lot of contributions to the environmental awareness of students on campus. Recycling and clean-up drives have been a main function of the club. Earth Week is a chance for all of the club's work to come together.

The week's activities include petition signing days, letter-writing campaigns, fund-raisers, tree plantings, and a vegetarian alternative lunch sale. A rally on Friday will end the week's festivities with a guest speaker who will speak on environmental protection.

National Earth Day, April 22, will be celebrated at Toro Regional Park. Live bands, food, booths, and many groups of people will be present. Everyone is encouraged to come, but bring your own plate, cloth napkin, and utensils to avoid an abundance of trash.

Environmental awareness is an issue that should not be overlooked. Organizations and clubs such as SMART are encouraging each citizen to do his or her part in protecting the world we live in. Take time out to care, because when it comes to the environment, we don't get a second chance.

SENIOR LINE

We need your help!

FOR THE past few years the California State Legislature has had bills introduced to tax Social Security Benefits. Each time the bills have been defeated. In order to put this threat to rest, Sen. John Doolittle introduced Senate Constitutional Amendment 17 (SCA 17), a measure which would preclude the State from taxing Social Security benefits.

Two measures which would have taxed these benefits have been defeated, but several members of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, who supported these measures, have opposed SCA 17.

We would appreciate your writing a letter to the chairperson of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee — Assemblyman Johan Klehs, State Capitol Room 2013, Sacramento, CA 95814, asking him to support this constitutional amendment.

One of the arguments that I personally feel should be presented is that it is double taxation since you have paid taxes on your earnings to receive this benefit and then are asked to pay it again on the benefits. You may have some other good reasons, too.

CONCERNED ABOUT INVESTMENTS WITH JUNK BONDS?

If you have any investment today, including life insurance policies, you may wonder how safe your money is. It is difficult to assess the safety of your money if you are evaluating the portfolio of the company that has your investment.

Although non-investment grade bonds (better known as junk bonds) may send up a red flag to you, it is necessary to know several factors. First, what percentage does this category represent in the total portfolio? Second, what degree of safety is there in these bonds? There are variables such as unrated bonds or private placements. There are certain diverse gradings given to the bonds.

Third, check the maturity on these bonds vs. the average duration of the bond portfolio. Short term investments will be less volatile. Fourth, check what is being measured. This can be a misleading figure, since the percentage figure of junk bonds may be minimal in relation to the total assets of the company or portfolio.

In summary, be cautious, but also be knowledgeable about junk bonds.

BUSINESS BEAT

By David Leland

One ringy dingy...

CBA MEMBERS were all ears last week as Pac Bell representative Kelly Green touted the benefits of good telephone etiquette during the CBA's monthly membership meeting.

Talking dollars and cents, Green said the average sales visit costs merchants about $300, with telemarketing coming in at less than $5 per call.

Moreover, the average outside salesperson can only visit between four and five customers daily. Using the telephone, merchants can contact as many as 50 clients in a day.

Green, who offers training seminars via Pac Bell, also talked briefly about dos and don'ts regarding the telephone.

DON'T!, she said, used "thinly disguised contempt," such as speaking too rapidly or putting the person on hold for umpteen minutes.

"Telephone skills are the basis for how you are held in the public's eye," she said.

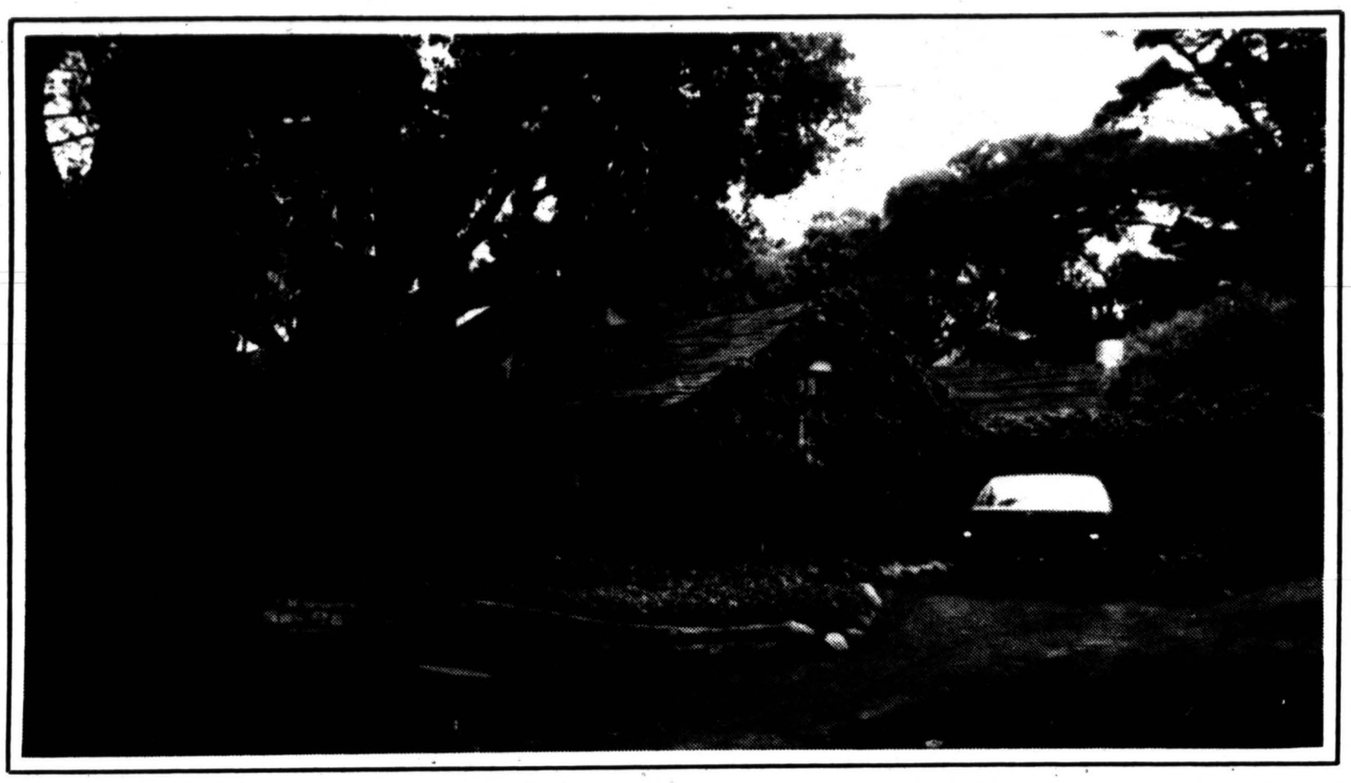
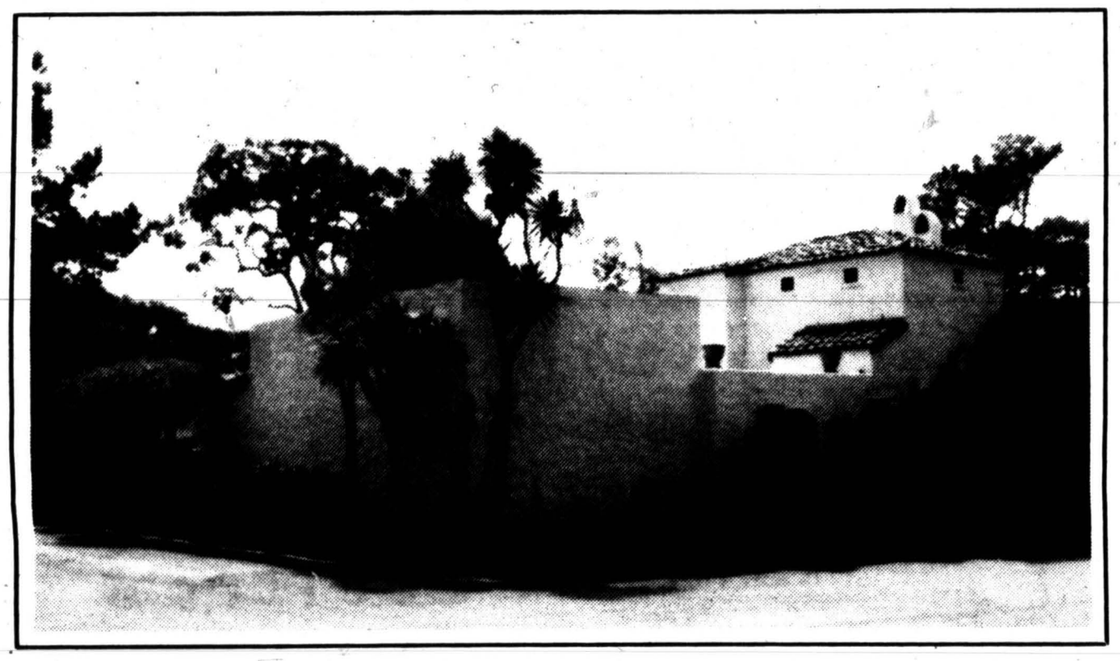
What is your idea of 'Carmel character?'

First in a series



A LINDSAY Hanna pick: "Handsome Cotswold-type cottage on Carmelo Street southeast of 10th Avenue. Preserves beautiful old trees and blends quietly into the neighborhood." Notice the house is almost buried in the landscaping.

ONE OF architect and former planning commissioner Richard Barrett's choices: "A M.J. Murphy gem. Murphy built two other houses like this one in Carmel. The house is an excellent use of the standard 40-by-100-square-foot lot. A single-car garage is attached virtually out of sight to the rear, but the garage violates sideyard setback requirements."



CHOOSEN BY Richard Barrett and others as a good example of a "house that breaks all the rules, but is very attractive for its exoticism. The massing is strong, but the equally exotic landscaping around the perimeter balance the severity of the composition." (Barrett's words.) Southwest corner of Casanova Street and 11th Avenue.

A CHRIS Tescher choice and Richard Barrett design: "Shows that the Carmel tradition still lives in this house Barrett designed a few years ago. It blends so well into its environment you don't even know it's there." Barrett states that the house is on a 33-foot wide lot and is only 1,050 square feet. It was "placed at the rear of the lot to give the feeling of a cottage in the forest." No garage to take up the lot volume. Eighth Avenue between Torres and Santa Fe streets.

ANOTHER TESCHER pick: "(Architect) John Thodos has designed a wonderful house. You may not like the style, but its use of materials and form provides simplicity and interest. Bulky yes, but light and whimsical at the same time." Scenic Road between Ocean and Eighth avenues.

A PINE Cone Pick (person who submitted photo requests anonymity): A well-cared modified Queen Anne built by M. J. Murphy with diamond paned windows and clap board siding. Clean, simple lines and newly painted to emphasize and modernize the style. On Monte Verde Street and Ninth Avenue.

ONE OF several houses submitted by Dwyane Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Craig McAllister and Pine Cone Pick: "Cottage look" and "all hand-crafted, not overdone." The smaller scale is in keeping to the fairytale-style detail which can be become too dominating in a larger house. A Dave Burdge designed and built house on west side of Monte Verde Street between Ninth and 10th avenues.

Readers submit their examples of Carmel character

By NANCY HILLS

WHAT IS a good house design? Carmel character? What makes Carmel-by-the-Sea's residential district different from San Jose, Corona del Mar, Monterey or Pacific Grove?

Village character has been a source of constant conversation in Carmel over the years. Recently, design review aimed at houses designed to be sensitive to the neighborhood and site have been a source of heated political debate.

But tastes in architecture is as eclectic as tastes in clothes, art and spouses; other people may not understand the attraction, but it is there nonetheless and that what makes things interesting.

That is a dilemma for the planning commission, which strives to balance property rights, community needs and retention of individual expression, a hallmark of Carmel's best houses.

To help find what is a good house design and compatible with Carmel neighborhood and style, The Pine Cone has asked our readers to send or bring in their choices of homes that reflect good design and Carmel character.

In this first selection of photographs with explanations why they were chosen, The Pine Cone tried to show the diversity of the submittals we have received so far.

Some brought pictures of their own homes and some a wide selection of designs.

Some things remained consistent. One of the biggest problems is that its trees and urban forest gives Carmel its village atmosphere.

It is not the architecture per se that is attractive but the fact that the design allows for enough foliage that the house is almost completely hidden. All very nice, but makes for poor photo opportunities.

Reoccuring comments about Carmel architecture is that the houses each have their own personality, or more accurately, reflect the individuality of the owner, and the love and care that goes into the home.

If you sent in photographs and they are not shown, have patience. More will be published in the coming weeks.

The Pine Cone is still taking photographs. They must be 35 mm, no slides or photocopies. Include an explanation of why you chose the home(s) and clearly identify which explanation goes with which picture, or write it on the back, along with its location. Write your name on the back of the photograph and send your full name, address and telephone number along with your photographs.

If you do not want your name run with your photos, state that and we will print them under the designation of a Pine Cone Pick.

Either mail the photographs to Carmel Character, c/o*Carmel Pine Cone*, P.O. Box G-1, Carmel, 93921 or bring them to the office at the northeast corner Ocean Avenue and San Carlos Street, upstairs. There is a drop box outside for after hours.

THE HOME of Tom and Margie Morjig, Mission Street, fifth house northwest of First Avenue, interior and exterior shots: "Less is more is the statement here. The little cottage looks like it sprouted from the ground. Understated rather than overstated it has never been updated to the detriment of the house. Its architecture is simple, not busy." This all-redwood cottage was built in 1929. "When one comes here they 'must be content and take time to really smell the flowers,' " the Morjigs wrote. Daughter Jamie Morjig is seen in top photo.

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

By Mary Parsons

Power plays

PINTO: CHRIS Foudy hit a home run on April 2 when Carmel Bay Company played Valley Auto. Teammate Adam Corder tripled, and Ross Saroyan skillfully caught a fly ball.

The Bullets and Pinto Power had a good game April 5. Joey Goldman (PP) doubled; Bob Stoddard (B) hit two doubles. Jared Mast caught a high fly ball with the bases loaded to become "Player of the Day" for Pinto Power. Aber Oyler and Justin McChesney-Wachs (B) also used their gloves to good advantage.

An April 6 match between Gepetto's and JJ's Shoes saw nice hitting and fielding by both teams. JJ's Kris Bonifas hit a solid 2-RBI double; teammate David Blagg did the same — twice! G's Jeff McGowan doubled and singled (2RBI?, while Roger Hawley's strong single drove in another run. JJ's good defense included Brian Kroopf at second, and great glove action by Carl Weiner and Sabian Ford. Zarosh Eggleston (G) made an excellent fly ball catch.

MUSTANG: Copies by the Sea squeaked one by Carmel Realtors, 11-10, in a game started March 28 and completed March 30. Hot bats for the winners belonged to Reid Roberts (3-for-3), who smashed a homer on the first pitch he saw; Jamie Eccher (3-for-3), Matt Borek (triple), and Rushad Eggleston. Top CR hitters: Sadie Thomas, Zach Friedman and Elliot Byrd. A major-league relay play from centerfielder Tony Klevan to Eggleston to catcher Borek kept the Realtors from scoring the tying run.

County Mounties scored early and held the lead to defeat Copies by the Sea 5-4 on April 2. Tevye Morganrath (CM) and Reid Roberts (CS) tripled; Morganrath also doubled and hit 3-for-3. Good pitching by Trent Nishiguchi and Zach Downing aided the win, while CS pitcher Rushad Eggleston held CM scoreless the last three innings. Matt Volgelpohl nailed an RBI hit to keep a CS rally alive and, with teammate Eric Danielson, was quick on the base paths. Chris Capestro (CS) made an unassisted double play.

Carmel Dental beat Carmel Realtors 8-4 on April 3. Joseph Nichols tripled and drove in two runs for the win; teammate Anton LaBrenz doubled. CR's Dania Akkad tripled, while Elliot Byrd and Zach Friedman had RBIs. Several pitchers turned in strong performances: Nick Campbell, Trevor Fogg, Tommy Brant and Friedman. Good base-running by Campbell, Friedman and Nichols (who stole home).

On the Beach took a 9-6 win over Brown Spaulding on April 4. Top hitter was OTB's Erik Langslet (3-for-3, double, triple). Batting 2-for-3 were OTB's Patrick Foudy (double), and BS players Ryan Lehr, Albert Saroyan and Peter Jamison. Shymala White contributed a good hit to the win; Sasha Vorobiov tripled and Adam Newhouse doubled for BS.

On April 5, County Mounties came from behind with five runs in the final inning for a 10-9 win over Carmel Realtors. Leading hitters: Trent Nishiguchi (4-for-4), Noah Cowen, Tyson Curtis and Jacob Patasky (all CM); CR's Bhajan Johnson (3-for-3, 2 triples), Zach Friedman and Matt Bedell. Bedell and Johnson were also noted for defensive talent.

Brown Spaulding beat Copies by the Sea on April 6. Chris Capestro, Tony Klevan (CS), Peter Jamison and Atticus Culver-Rease (BS) fielded flies with skill; BS pitcher Jacob Silver and catcher Russel Wolter combined for a great play at home. CS pitcher Rushad Eggleston snagged a hit and threw out the runner with quick reflexes. Notable hitters: Reid Roberts (3-for-4), Jamie Eccher (3-for-3), Eggleston and Matt Borek for CS; Albert Saroyan (triple), Sasha Vorobiov (2 doubles), Adam Newhouse, Chris Peart and Russel Wolter for BS.

BRONCO: OOPS! In the CVD/Derek Rayne game reported last week, Carmel Valley Disposal were the victors (8-3).

Despite a fierce final-inning rally, Pine Inn fell to the Express 14-12 on April 3. When PI's Tim Crowley smashed a 3-run homer in the top of the fifth, Robbie Nakamura (E) answered with a 3-run blast of his own. Express hitting highlights: Matthew Allen (3-for-4, 3 RBI), Tim Greco and Chris Arthur (RBI doubles), and a perfect RBI bunt by Amir Masliyah. Catcher Greco and first baseman Allen combined for a great pick-off; PI's Lisa Walgenbach made an outstanding catch of another Nakamura home run attempt.

Derek Rayne had 15 hits on April 4, to top Vessey's by a score of 15-9. DR's Ben Cook tripled and doubled; teammate Chris Langslet (2-for-2), doubled. Top hitters for Vessey's: Atsuhito Ito (2-for-2), Chris Purdy (2-for-3) and Michael Yee (1-for-2, 2 RBI).

Carmel Valley Disposal overcame La Playa 12-4 on April 5. CVD's bats were hot, with doubles by Adam Zerbe, Brent Sullivan and Brian Christensen; John Davi (2-for-4), doubled for LP. Brian Huntington drove in two runs for the win.

The Express took an 8-4 win from Derek Rayne on April 6. E's Amir Masaliyah (3-for-4), Robbie Nakamura (2-for-3), and Kent Wehde (triple), were leading hitters; DR's Ben Cook and Bret Hogan batted 3-for-4. Dylan Pappas pitched three scoreless innings for the winners; Masliyah contributed an inning-ending double play. Pitcher Cook caught a sharp line drive to the mound.

ROOKIE SOFTBALL: The Carmel Maple Leaves narrowly lost a 7-6 game to the Little Lady A's on April 7. Heather Brown hit 2-for-3; Jenni Schock nailed an RBI double. Pitcher Cameron Cox shows great promise for the future.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

Hyphens

GENERALLY, I do not care for hyphens. It seems to me, when political columnist George Will refers to President Bush as the "poll-taker President," no one is likely to suspect Bush of thievery, absent the hyphen. Most people by now understand Will to mean the president does not make decisions without first checking their popularity. (Will contrasts him with Harry Truman, whose maxim was "Do right, risk consequences." Bush's maxim, says Will, is "Do polls, risk nothing.")

Hyphens appear to be everywhere, today, and most of those I see were better left in the printer's type box. The hyphen's function ought, it seems to me, to be limited to cases where its absence might cause confusion. A "little-used car," by way of example, is not always a "little used car." Is Editor-in-Chief somehow more precise in its meaning than Editor in Chief? If it looks like a duck, walks like a duck and quacks like a duck, (Like is acceptable here as a preposition), is it duck-like or ducklike?

Some copy editors insist on duck-like, and it seems a reasonable argument. Others, notably the Associated Press and New York (New-York?) Times, insist the suffix "like" be affixed to the word, converting it into a new adjective, seemingly an argument of equal reason until one runs across a sentence such as, "a water source welllike in its origin." Welllike? I suppose here, the hyphen would provide welcome relief from the confusion of three consecutive "l"s.

The New York Times was for 45 years, until 1896, identified across its masthead as The New-York Times according to an interpretation which said New-York was, in this case, not a proper noun, but a compound adjective modifying the name of the newspaper. The hyphen disappeared when the paper was sold without undue confusion to its reders and the prevailing view ever since is no one has ever asked whatever happened to the News-York Times?

William Safire, the New York Times language and political columnist, believes when using "like" as a comparative, the hyphen ought to be dropped when "like" is affixed to "ordinary" nouns, but always should be employed with proper nouns. In proper nouns he stands for the use of the hyphen in a businesslike way, a distinctly Safire-like stance. His example is Draculalike which Safire says "just doesn't look right," as opposed to Dracula-like, which does. "In the correct use of hyphens, looks count," he counsels.

Looks occasionally count, but avoiding confusion is still the better argument. A small-business man is an unnecessary hyphenation, since the other meaning is clearly different in its structure, i.e., a small businessman. Previously hyphenated words which have become common as single words in today's language include baseball, seaplane or housemaster. While these words combine easily, others do not such s seaair. While the double vowel is an impediment here, it appears not to be in cooperate or coefficient. Perhaps Safire is right after all. When in doubt, leave it out, unless it looks funny. As Winston Churchill admonished, "One must regard the hyphen as a blemish to be avoided wherever possible."

THIS NEXT subject is in answer, somewhat belatedly, to a reader's question about the use of "an" and "a." She writes to ask if there is any basis for using "an" before a word beginning with a consonant. She notes that Herb Caen does this in his San Francisco Chronicle columns, as in "an San Francisco landmark" and Neiman-Marcus in its advertisement for "an Neiman-Marcus exclusive."

To the best of my knowledge there is no justification for such use. Shaw, in Errors in English, states clearly "The choice between a and an depends upon the initial sound of the word which follows." An is used with a vowel sound and a with that of a consonant. The word "sound" is key here, as there are consonants which require both a and an.

For example we say, or should say, a history lesson, not an history lesson because here the h is pronounced hard as the consonant it is. Nevertheless, when the h pronunciation is soft, and sounds like the a vowel, we say, it is an honor. We still see, however, an historian among a few other remnants of the time when it was usual to use an before all words beginning with h.

Photographic reflection

CARMEL RESIDENT Marcia DeVoe had four photographs recently chosen as part of the City of Monterey's "Flashback, A Photographic Reflection of Monterey." A panel of judges selected a total of 58 photographs to be exhibited as a permanent part of the city's history and preserved in the City of Monterey Art Collection. Here DeVoe stands next to one of here photos, one entitled "Colton Hall — 1990."

In the last sentence most Americans are inclined to say an "h," rather than a "h" just as we are still inclined to do a double-take at "a historian" when we read it. It is, nevertheless, correct.

There is a change also in use preceding words beginning with vowels, but whose sound is what grammarians call "consonantal," so that we now hear and read a unit and a eulogy. This is simply a matter of bending the rules, in a twist on Safire's observation, because it sounds better. Herb Caen and Neiman-Marcus' uses are mere affectation and incorrect.

CARMEL ARTISTS'S PHOTOS EXHIBITED

Marcia DeVoe of Carmel, a well-known educator in the Carmel Unified School District from 1947 to 1975 and local historian and photographer, participated in the local photo event — "Flashback, a Photographic Reflection of Monterey." Four of her photos hang in the exhibit in the Alvarado Gallery of the Monterey Conference Center, running through April 26.

Immediately following this event, she will also have another color print in the Pacific Grove Art Center's "original work of art" Patron's show on April 27.

Her work has been exhibited in the past (among others) at the Photographic Center in Carmel, the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, and the Seaside City Hall Rotunda.

She is best known for her volunteer five-year documentary photo journal of the restoration of the Cooper-Molera Adobe and during her teaching career, her pictures of children were exhibited in the Monterey Library Community Room.

PB STUDENT CITED FOR ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

A Dartmouth College sophomore from Pebble Beach has been cited by a professor of economics for outstanding academic achievement during the fall term.

John Dean was cited by professor John J. Monz for his "exceptional performance on all exams and problem sets."

John is the son of Michael and Judith Dean of Pebble Beach, and a 1987 graduate of Robert Louis Stevenson High School.

Citation winners are quite rare among the 4,000 undergraduates on the Dartmouth campus, as members of the faculty are invited to submit citation reports only when a student's work is sufficiently distinguished to merit special recognition. Such citations are rare, and relatively few are submitted each term.

Dartmouth, the ninth oldest college in the United States and the northernmost of the Ivy League institutions, has a total enrollment of some 4,000 undergraduates and nearly 1,000 graduate students. Noted as one of the most competitive colleges in the nation, Dartmouth operates on a distinctive four-term, year-round system.

IT ALL STARTED WITH THE QUEEN OF ROMANIA

G. William Gahagan of Carmel, one of Santa Catalina's earliest faculty members and a long-time friend of the school, has donated his collection of more than 100 autographed books to the Sister Kieran Memorial Library.

The books were written by a diverse group of friends, colleagues, and notable figures with whom Gahagan has come in contact during "a lifetime of collecting people." Most of the volumes bear personal inscriptions from the authors. They include works by Helen Gahagan Douglas, Yehudi Menuhin, Bernard DeVoto, Dean Acheson, Stewart Udall, President Harry S. Truman, Walter Rostow, S.I. Hayakawa, Ashley Montagu, Paul Tillich, George Gamow, Arnold Toynbee, A.L. Rowse, Robert Maynard Hutchins, Wallace Stegner, Hank Ketcham, Ansel Adams, and Robinson Jeffers.

"I'm especially happy to give this collection to Santa Catalina," Gahagan said, "because our whole family has had memorable experiences here over the years." Gahagan taught English and history at Santa Catalina in 1954-55. His daughters, Tappy Gahagan Hunt of Carmel and Lissa Gahagan Nicolaus of Ross, are alumnae. Leslie Hunt, his granddaughter, is a member of the Santa Catalina Class of 1992.

Ask Gahagan how his lifelong interest in people and books began, and he'll tell you that "it all started with the Queen of Romania. I was a boy in Indianapolis in 1921 when I heard that she was coming to town. My mother gave me 25 cents so that I could take the streetcar to see the queen at the public library. She went sweeping by. I waved and then I went home, pleased as punch. That started me on a lifetime of collecting people."

Since then, Gahagan has continued to seek adventure through travel, a varied professional life, and actively reaching out to people. He studied at Dartmouth College and served during World War II in Office of War Information branches in San Francisco and Washington, DC. After the war, he completed his undergraduate degree at Dartmouth in the Class of 1949 and remained for a year to teach the school's Great Issues course, itself a fertile ground for meeting the intellectuals of the day.

Between 1950 and 1957, Mr. Gahagan taught in primary and secondary schools — including Santa Catalina — in California and Colorado. In 1957 he earned his master's degree from Stanford University, and he and his family began a four-year stay in Rome. He taught at the Overseas International School during the first year and later became director of the U.S. Embassy Employees Association. Returning home in 1961, he served for two years as director of community relations and special services at the University of California-Santa Barbara. Since 1964 he has been president and executive secretary of the California Friends of Robert Frost.

Gahagan hopes that his gift to Santa Catalina will become the basis for frequent seminars in the library. He also hopes the collection will inspire students to become collectors of books and people. "Books are people, written by people," he said. "I'm interested in how they lived, what they thought. They are alive to me."

MUSEUM ON WHEELS GOING STRONG

The Museum on Wheels (MOW) of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art (MPMA), in conjunction with the Migrant Region XVI of Monterey County, hosted a special reception and presentation on Jan. 22 at the museum's extension, La Mirada, for state representatives of Migrant Education.

As part of a larger conference, the presentation intended to introduce participants outside of Monterey County to the exciting and innovative arts and reading program, "Learning to Read through the Arts" (LTRTA), which was developed in New York in 1971 and was successfully adopted in three school districts in the Salinas Valley during summer 1989. The presentation also provided a model for state representatives to implement the LTRTA program in their respective regions.

As a cultural institution, the Museum on Wheels has played an instrumental role in the project by providing valuable resources to both students and teachers. LTRTA aims to improve the reading and writing skills of migrant students through the integration of a total arts program with a total reading program. Through the museum's contributions, students are exposed to the arts and cultures of many peoples around the world by exploring hand-made artifacts. Students are also engaged in arts activities which encourage creative development and the learning of arts vocabulary and techniques.

For the coming summer, the Museum on Wheels plans to participate in the LTRTA project by preparing teachers to bring students to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art to view an unusual exhibition of Chinese costumes and textiles. In doing so, the Museum on Wheels will be enabling students to have an exciting and enriching cross-cultural experience which will stimulate learning in many ways. Through participation in this school program, the MPMA will also be providing a model for other museums and cultural institutions to participate in similarly innovative educational projects.

For more information on the LTRTA project, please contact Laura Temple at 373-2061.

FARR APPOINTED AS CHAIR OF POWERFUL ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

Assemblyman Sam Farr (D-Santa Cruz/Monterey), concurrently resigned as Chairman of the Economic Development, International Trade and Technology and was appointed as chairman of the powerful Local Government Committee.

The changes come about at a time when a number of committee assignments were changed to accommodate Assemblywoman Maxine Waters' announcement of her intention to run for Congress and resign her position as Democratic Caucus Chairwoman.

As chairman of the Local Government Committee Farr will be responsible for all legislation that deals with the 5,135 special districts over 440 cities and 58 counties in California.

"I started in public service as a county supervisor. This appointment is a bit of a homecoming for me," said Farr. Among the jurisdiction of the committee are the issues of: land use planning and zoning, school fees, developer fees, grand jury laws, special districts, and special taxes and other local alternative revenue sources.

Farr commented on his resignation of the Economic Development, International Trade and Technology Committee, "While I will no longer be chair of this committee, I intend to remain an active member and will continue to work towards diversifying and broadening our state's economic horizon."

Farr outlined his intentions for the future directions of the committee, "My goal as chair of the committee will be to make the relationship between the state and local government less adversarial, more harmonious. I intend to improve the quality of services at both the state and local level through sound fiscal management. "We've got to come to grips with limited tax dollars going towards providing the greatest amount of services to the most people."

APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE FOR JIM BARRETT MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

Applications are now available through the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District for an educational scholarship in the amount of $500 for the school year 1990-1991.

Barrett was the former fire chief of Turlock Rural Fire District where his wife and family still live. Through the generosity of his wife Sharon, and friends from both Turlock and the Mid Carmel Valley areas, the dual scholarship fund was established to recognize and provide aid to high school students from both areas.

Applications should be turned in to the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station, 8455 Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, CA 93923 and the deadline to receive applications is May 15, 1990. Scientific endeavors

ANDY EMERSON, 11, and Scott Faverty, 13 (above), admired the work of a science project presented by Carmel River School student Andrea Magee called "Tender Loving Care," in which Andrea pointed out the benefits of talking to your plants in addition to watering and fertilizing them. The boys were skeptical, but the results proved them wrong. Meanwhile (below), Kathryn Hirt and her 6-year-old son Kyle examined Mandy Moran's project which asked the question, "Do Coins Corrode Faster in Salt Water of Fresh Water?" Salt water proved to be much more conducive to corrosion. All this occurred at River School's annual Science Fair. (Chuck Scardina photos.)

He was the son of T.A. Work, who at one time owned a fourth of downtown Monterey and was a benefactory to many Peninsula residents.

The younger Mr. Work was born in Pacific Grove on April 26, 1905, and lived on the Monterey Peninsula all his life. He left the area to attend Stanford University, where he graduated with distinction in 1927.

He won the Skull and Snake Scholarship Trophy in his junior year and was named to Phi Beta Kappa. He also was a member of Theta Xi fraternity.

His father, who died in 1963, arrived penniless from his native Scotland and built a financial empire, beginning as a feed store owner. He became involved in a number of business ventures, establishing seven banks, a land company and the Work Lumber Co.

The younger Mr. Work served as president of the lumber company and also became president of the Work Mill and Cabinet Co., Work M.L. Cases, Install Case Inc. and Custom House Packing Corp.

He was a board member of the Bank of Carmel, which merged with Crocker Bank, and was active in community organizations and on various governing bodies. He was a member of the Monterey Rotary Club and served a year as chairman of the United Way.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Behavioral scientist B.F. Skinner was 79 when he published the book, "Enjoy Old Age," and he offered much common-sense advice: Follow a fairly regular pattern of meals, household chores and other daily routines to keep your days organized. Counter "sameness" by making some changes in the kinds of books and magazines you read and the TV programs you watch. Look into offerings of adult education programs. Don't let other people do things for you that you can still do yourself.

CRITIC AT LARGE

By Mac McDonald

Rock & Soul

JAMES BROWN may be the "hardest working man in show business," but The Dynatones must certainly claim the title, "the hardest working band in show business."

Just about anywhere a group of people get together to have a good time dancing, from ski lodges to barbecue joints, the San Francisco-based rockin' soul outfit will apparently be there — they play about 250 dates a year. One of those dates will be tonight (Thursday, April 12), at The Club of Monterey when The Dynatones join the Terry Hanck Soulrocker Review Part III for some non-stop R&B and blues.

The Dynatones have three albums out, two on Rounder, and a third, their major label debut, Shameless (Warner Bros.) that Rolling Stone magazine gave three stars and described as "no-nonsense, come-as-you-are stomp music for people who want to knock back a few long necks and then sweat them out on the dance floor."

The Dynatones' sound has been described variously as a cross between the roots rock of The Fabulous Thunderbirds and the neo-soul of Huey Lewis & The News, with bits of Stax-Volt, Billy Vera and Robert Cray thrown in for good measure. The San Antonio Light called them one of the "rockingest soul-shakingest bands in the land," among other platitudes.

The first two Soulrocker Reviews drew enthusiastic capacity crowds to The Club (with Elvin Bishop featured in the first, and Roy Rogers and Norton Buffalo in the second), and this one should be no different, so put on your dancin' shoes and be ready to work up a sweat. Not recommended for the weak at heart.

Thanks go to music promoter Steve Vagnini and sax player Terry Hanck for not only believing in the peninsula's live music scene, but nurturing and encouraging it.

FOR ANOTHER great live music event, put this on your calendar: Queen Ida and the Bon Temps Zydeco Band will be performing their incendiary brand of zydeco as a benefit for The York School at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 21 at the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

Queen Ida — part of an extended zydeco family that includes her son Freeze and brother Al Rapone — has been nominated for four Grammy Awards, winning one, but she is probably best known in these parts for lighting a fire under the traditional blues afternoons at the Monterey Jazz Festival.

Originally from Louisiana, where this hot 'n' spicy party music was born, Queen Ida plays the instrument of choice for most zydeco band leaders — the accordion. And if you haven't heard zydeco, you're in for a treat.

(Tickets for the event can be had by calling The York School at 372-7338 or 422-4299. York School Orchestra opens the show at 7:30, with Queen Ida slated for 8:30. Proceeds benefit The York School Scholarship Fund.)

American Saddlebreds compete in Monterey

THE MONTEREY Springfest-American Saddlebred Horse Show, presented by the Foundation for American Show Horse and held in conjunction with booster clubs of local high schools and junior high schools, will make its debut on the Monterey Peninsula Thursday, April 12 to Saturday, April 14.

The Springfest Horse Show, which marks the return of American Saddlebred competition to Monterey after a 10-year hiatus, will feature some 350 horses from eight Western states. Nearly 100 events will be performed during both the matinee and evening performances, set for 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily at the Monterey County Fairgrounds and Exposition Park.

All proceeds, including 100 percent of the ticket sales, will benefit the booster clubs of several greater Monterey Bay Area schools, including Walter Colton, Carmel and King middle schools and Pacific Grove High School. Other area schools are planning to participate as well. The dates of the horse show purposely fall during the public schools' spring break.

The American Saddlebred Horse will join Standardbreds and Hackney Ponies as the featured breeds to be exhibited at the show. Also, 12 antique-type carriage driving events will be held during the three days of competition.

Among the highlight performers in the show are:

- My Heart, the 1989 World's Grand Champion Roadster to Bike Horse. Trained and driven by Rob Tanner, the horse is based in San Luis Rey.
- Michelle Macfarlane from Scripps Ranch in San Diego. Macfarlane is the only woman, and only the second amateur in the 100-year history of the American Saddlebred, ever to win the World's Grand Champion five-gaited stake.
- Dear One, world's champion ladies hackney pony, from Santa Barbara.

All seating, with the exception of reserved exhibitor boxes, is open and available on a first-come, first-served basis. All-performance tickets cost $10 and allow for entry into each of the six shows.

Individual performance tickets will be sold for $2.50 per show. Tickets are available from any of the participating school booster clubs or at the Fairgrounds gate the day of the show.

Congressman Panetta to discuss ethics

Congressman Leon Panetta will be the final speaker in the current York School Lecture Series, "Whatever Happened to Ethics?" The lecture will be given in the school's library at 5 p.m. Monday, April 16.

Congressman Panetta, chairman of the House Budget Committee, will focus on the federal budget, addressing topics such as the budget's effect on the future of our society, budget reform, defense spending reductions and how they apply to domestic spending, and the growing deficit.

Congressman Panetta, a native of Monterey, has represented California's 16th District continuously since 1976. He has served on several key Congressional committees and has authored numerous measures to protect California coastal areas from offshore oil and gas drilling. He is also the author of the measure to create the National Maritime Sanctuary at Monterey Bay.

A reception will follow the lecture. The York School is located at 9501 York Road off Highway 68.

For ticket information and reservations, call 372-7338 or 422-4299.

Dreaming Art Gala

'Stage Door Canteen' set at Carmel Foundation

SETTING THE stage for the upcoming Stage Door Canteen show at the Carmel Foundation are these Red Cross workers who help with entertaining the troops: from left, Mercedes Ferrante, Charlotte Minor, Kelly Baker and Lois Hanger. "Red, Hot and Blue" music from the 1940s will highlight this benefit revue, which will recreate World War II's famed Stage Door Canteen, where America's highest paid performers volunteered to cook, serve, wash dishes and entertain America's fighting men and women. Performances are set two weekends, April 21-22 and April 28-29. All shows begins at 2 p.m. at the Carmel Foundation, Lincoln and Eighth, Carmel. Admission is $5, which includes the after-show Ice Cream Social. Tickets are on sale now at the business office, or send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with ticket requests and payment to the Carmel Foundation, Box 1050, Carmel, CA 93921. (Elmer Roy photo).

ON SATURDAY, April 14, the Monterey Mozarteum will present Mozart at the Aquarium, a gala auction to benefit the 1990 Mozart in Monterey Festival and the first Mozart in Monterey Youth Concert. It will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Taking place at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, the evening will begin with tasting of wines from California vineyards to the accompaniment of classical chamber music, followed by live and silent auctions, viewing of the aquarium exhibits, continuous screening of the film Amadeus, and dancing to the music of the Kevin Feeney Band.

"This outstanding auction," said Honorary Chairperson Jean Grace, Mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea, "will feature vacations and getaways, including air passage for two to Kuala Lumpur and Singapore and 11 days luxury hotel accommodations, collectible photographs by prominent photographers such as Brett Weston, Morley Baer, William Giles, Clinton Smith and Kathleen Olson, an original cartoon by Eldon Dedini, fine wines, computers, a 19th century harmonium, TV's, VCR's, and many other valuable items."

Reservations for the auction may be made by writing the office of Mozart in Monterey, Box 410, 177 Webster St., Monterey, 93940. Tickets may also be purchased at the door on the night of the auction. Single admission is $30, couples $50. A table for 10 may be purchased for $275.

MUSIC CORNER

Chamber, Carmel music societies conclude seasons

CONCLUDING THEIR season in fine style, the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula presented the Leonardo Trio in concert Friday night in Sunset Theater.

This youthful and highly accomplished group which consists of violinist Erica Kiesewetter, cellist Jonathan Spitz and pianist Cameron Grant, was formed in 1985. However, throughout the concert they displayed attributes which belied their relatively brief musical association. The delicately played opening phrases of the "Trio on Irish Folk Themes" by the contemporary Swiss composer Frank Martin soon conveyed a clear impression of the group's sensitive ensemble awareness and their masterful instrumental skills.

The almost impressionistic Adagio was given an improvisatory character, an effect that can only be accomplished successfully by a quality of great ensemble concentration and performing sensitivity. The Gigue finale was really a fiddler's jig, but the tone seemed deliberately small for the line. There is humor in this music and the many intriguing rhythmic patterns which gave it interest were expertly rendered.

The Beethoven "Trio in E Flat Major" op. 70, No. 2, is also essentially a happy work. Its intimacy and charm were underscored by a nearly Mozartean interpretation. The deft professionalism of the players, their rapport and well conceived tonal balance helped create the pure classicism of the performance. The strings were refined and the pianist played with an even-fingered, smoothly legato technique.

The Allegretto, a theme and variations which took the place of the more usual slow movement, was a delight to listen to. The Allegretto third movement was a Schubertian waltz played with grace and taste, featuring finely woven ensemble. There was stylistic sophistication in the conception. The finale showed excellent coordination in the cadenza-like episodes, but here the pianist overshadowed his colleagues who, in future would do well to develop a more assertive musical stance in this particular work.

Mendelssohn's "Trio No. 2 in C Minor," op. 66, while not as familiar as his first composition in this form, is a worthy and substantial work particularly as given by the Leonardo Trio. Here in fact, the string players righted the balance and projected themselves fully and deservedly into their proper relationship with the piano.

The opening phrases which are very difficult to coordinate, were expertly conveyed and revealed the wealth of beauty in the score. The playing was smooth, full and elegant, sometimes passionate and exciting and at other appropriate points, transparent and polished. The second Movement was a typical "Song Without Words," full of mellow melody and very pleasing to the ear. The Scherzo was also in true Mendelsohnian style with its sparkling flitterings and was relayed with impeccable flights of skill.

The final Allegro generated much excitement with its concerto-like piano part and strong string participation and the interpolated chorale melody made an imposing contrast. In the coda, all the elements came together to make a rousing conclusion. The enthusiastic audience response would surely have elicited an encore, but unfortunately, in the vigorously played closing chords, one of the cello strings gave way so that it wasn't possible. Even so, the audience still kept on applauding to indicate their appreciation of these accomplished musicians.

IN ANOTHER SEASON finale, the Carmel Music Society presented the 1989 piano competition winner, 28-year-old Bryan Verhoye in recital Saturday night in Sunset Theater. This event is part of the contest winner's prize award and indeed the concert seemed to be much like a graduation presentation in which the performer is required to demonstrate his facility with and understanding of the various compositional periods which make up the literature for his instrument.

The program was of just such a type. Mr. Verhoye began with a sample of the Baroque period, choosing the Busoni transcription of the Bach "Chaconne" from the "Partita No. 2 for Unaccompanied Violin." Interestingly, Brahms also made a transcription of it, but for the left hand only. As the pianist proceeded with the Busoni version, using very heavy pedaling and full-fisted chordal playing, the music took on the flavor and the romantic colors of Brahms. There was strength rather than clarity in the piling up of sonorities and little Baroque style.

The Beethoven "Sonata in A Major" op. 101 was the Classical era representative. In the gentle, emotive first movement, Verhoye brought a more judicious approach to bear, using restraint both in his touch and the use of the pedal. The dotted rhythms of the Vivace were played jauntily and the musical atmosphere was more relaxed. The Adagio was a more personal utterance and the fugal finale with its waltz episodes, was given a quite satisfactory performance. Verhoye is not a master pianist yet. He needs to be given time to develop the necessary control of artistic nuance and instrumental sound, but right now, he certainly can encompass the text.

This need was also apparent in the Chopin "Scherzo No. 2 in B Flat Minor" op. 31. A staple of the Romantic literature, it found the pianist clanging on the chords, and rippling lightly in the fast passages. He missed the rhythmic idiosyncracy of the opening triplet figures, thereby trivializing them, yet played the waltz sections very expressively.

In the closing agitato section, he was more involved but then was not always accurate in his aim.

After the intermission, the pianist apparently made repertoire choices that were closer to his heart and understanding. His playing of the Schumann "Faschingschwank aus Wien" op. 26, was a full-fledged artistic performance. Its smaller proportions were more manageable and the many varied episodes were flexibly encompassed and sympathetically interpreted in fitting scale.

As a fire-breathing modern summation of the recital, the artist performed Stravinsky's "Three Movements from Petrouchka" which is a virtuoso paraphrase of three scenes from the ballet's orchestral score. The pianist painted swirling musical pictures of the events taking place on stage. The "Russian Dance" was kaleidoscopic and full of verve and strong rhythms. "In Petrouchka's Room" was too steely-fingered. The pathos of the central figure was missing. But the "Shrovetide Fair" scene was a brilliant success. It was full of tremendous pianistic excitement and strength. The ending is frenzied and when well done, it brings a concert to hair-raising climax and that is exactly what occurred.

As an equally thrilling encore, Mr. Verhoye played the incredible number of blazing notes Vladimir Horowitz incorporated into his "Variations on Themes from Carmen." Then to calm things down, he offered a fine reading of the Rachmaninoff "Prelude in G Sharp Minor."

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Words came hard

THAT UNEXPLICATED wire wouldn't go away: Sassy had cancer. Her people told Jimmy Lyons that the lady would record some things during April's first week. She was booked for the Sunday evening show of Monterey Jazz Festival (9/21-23). After Sarah Vaughan died in Los Angeles (4/3), words came hard.

"There's terrible sadness," Jimmy said. "Sarah's greatness speaks for itself. We've never lost a (signed) artist this way — Somebody Else called her first. Sunday night's a strong program. We'll seek another singer. Several ideas maintain. You'll know as soon as we know — "

Meanwhile, Johnny Adams of KRML Jazz Radio (1410AM) will pay respects with a three-hour Sarah Tribute. Drawn from Johnny's private collection, the program starts at four o'clock on Friday afternoon (4/13). Rare items.

Events celebrate Earth Day on the Monterey Peninsula

THREE SPECIAL lectures and a recycling program that rewards participants with a free admission ticket are planned when the Monterey Bay Aquarium celebrates Earth Day 1990.

The original Earth Day in 1970 helped galvanize environmental awareness in the United States. This year's event aims for a similar change around the world.

"The first step is understanding what it is you're saving and why it's worth the effort," said Steve Webster, director of education for the aquarium. "It's what we've tried to do since we opened: help people appreciate the ocean environment so they'll have a stake in protecting it."

In a similar vein, the aquarium will take a look at problems facing the planet and prospects for solving them during its Earth Day programs.

The first two lectures are planned Tuesday, April 17 at 7 p.m. and Wednesday, April 18 at noon. Retired NASA expert Richard Underwood, the photographic trainer for every U.S. astronaut from the Mercury program through the Space Shuttle, will present "Global Environment: The View From Space." His slide talk, using 30 years of images recorded by American astronauts, documents in dramatic fashion the progression of large-scale environmental damage on Earth.

Underwood, winner of the Presidential Medal of Freedom and of the Frederick W. Brehm Medal for outstanding contributions to the science of photography, has lectured on space photography throughout the world.

On Friday, April 20, at 7 p.m. Dr. John Martin, director of Moss Landing Marine Lab, will present "Hope for a Hot Planet: Oceans and the Greenhouse Effect." Martin, a key researcher in global studies of the ocean/atmosphere connection, will discuss the link between oceans and the greenhouse effect, including some hopes for averting a worldwide crisis in climate.

All three lectures will take place in the aquarium auditorium and are open to the public for a $4 fee. Tickets will be available at the door. It is not necessary to visit the aquarium in order to attend the lectures.

On Earth Day itself (Sunday, April 22), the aquarium will give free admission tickets to the first 5,000 people who bring two or more large brown-paper grocery bags full of recyclables to bins beside the aquarium. Newspapers, glass, plastic, aluminum and tin will be accepted for recycling from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

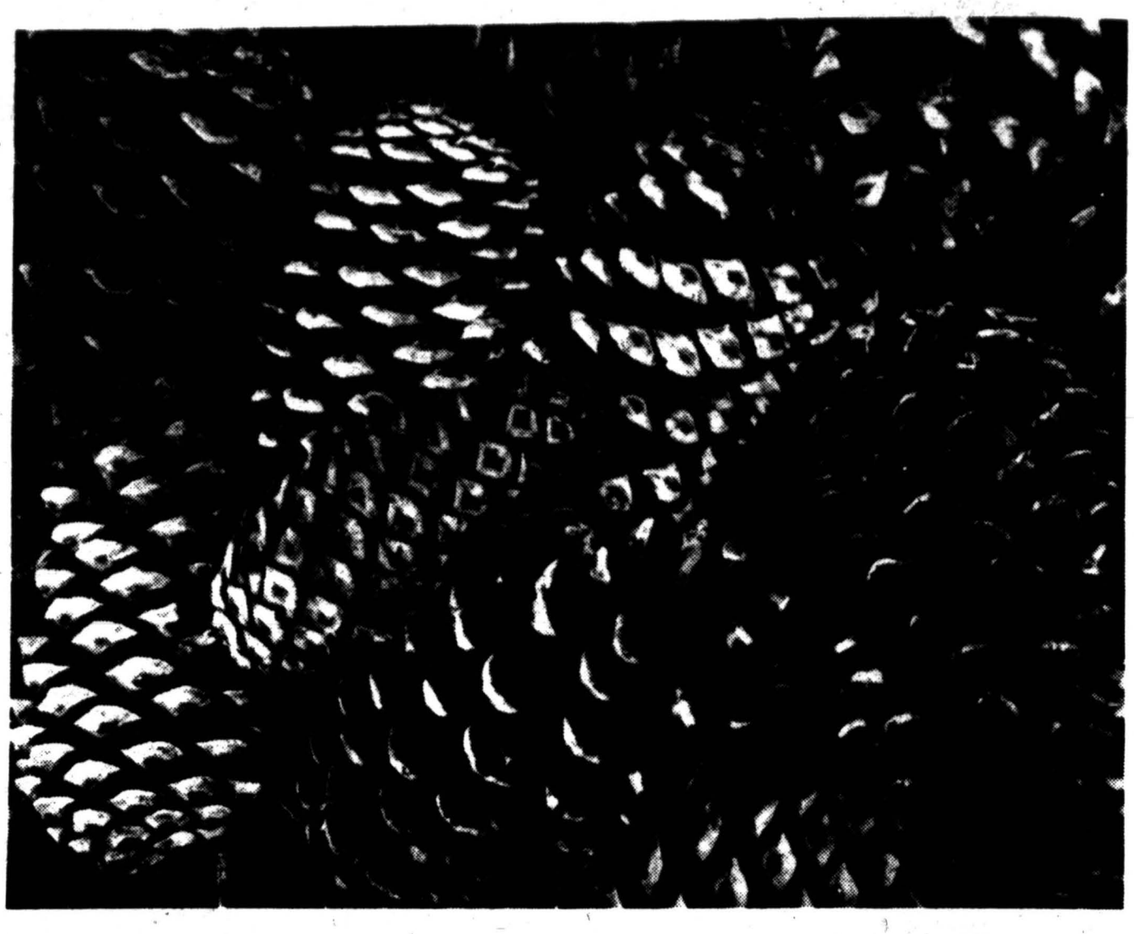
One ticket per person (a maximum of four tickets per family) will be given away. Families must bring two or more bags for each ticket. Recycling bins will be located in the employee parking lot next to the aquarium, at David Avenue and Ocean View Boulevard.

In conjunction with its special exhibit, "Living Treasures of the Pacific," the aquarium is also giving out fact cards with information about conservation organizations involved in protecting the oceans and marine life. "Living Treasures" features spectacular plants and animals from the four corners of the Pacific, and emphasizes the threats that confront the fragile marine habitats in which they live.

Fact cards and admission to "Living Treasures" is free with regular aquarium admission of $8 for adults, $5.75 for students and seniors, and $3.50 for children ages 3-12.

The aquarium is located at 886 Cannery Row, Monterey. It is open daily except Christmas from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Additional information is available by calling 648-4888.



SID HOLLANDER, nature photographer, will present his work at the annual Monterey Daffodil Festival at Custom House Plaza April 14-15 and will also represent the San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge which benefits from the arts/crafts festival.

Benefit arts and crafts show heralds the arrival of spring

ARTISTS AND craftsmen dedicated to preservation of wildlife will exhibit their creations at the Fifth Annual Daffodil Festival. It is presented noon to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 14-15, at Monterey's historic Custom House Plaza, located near Old Fisherman's Wharf.

Volunteers from the San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge will staff an information desk and provide literature on the 23,000 acre national wildlife refuge created in 1972 to protect a variety of natural and man-made habitats for wildlife, and provide opportunities for nature lovers to enjoy and learn about the bay environment. Environmental education, interpretive programs, wildlife observation, extensive hiking trails, boating, camping, fishing and hunting are offered at various locations in the refuge. Books, posters and other items for sale will aid the refuge's educational programs.

The San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge also oversees the Salinas River Wildlife Management Area, located 11 miles north of Monterey where the Salinas River empties into Monterey Bay. The area is often used for hiking, wildlife and wildflower observation and photography, and surf fishing.

While many of the exhibitors are wildlife artists working in a variety of media, ranging from photography, paintings, carvings, clothing and jewelry, the exhibit will not be limited to this theme. The event showcases the diverse contemporary work of Monterey Bay and Northern California artists who value the wetlands and are often inspired in their work from this valuable resource.

Custom House Historic Plaza is located opposite Fisherman's Wharf, with convenient parking at Pacific and Scott in Monterey. Admission is free. For more information call 625-0931.

'Earth, Salt & Fire'

"EARTH, SALT & Fire," an exhibition of salt-glazed ceramics by Sandra Johnstone, will be shown in the Monterey Peninsula College Creative Arts Gallery April 18 through May 4. The show will be open from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Johnstone has been exploring the salt glazing process of ceramics since 1969 and has become an authority on these techniques. Her trademark is the single, large, thrown form. In addition to being a college instructor, Johnstone is a kiln designer and builder. She will conduct an all-day workshop on salt-glazing techniques in the MPC ceramics studio on Saturday, May 5. Jazz Tides...

Monterey Jazz Festival Education Committee, under Chairman Joe Green, generated fresh thinking that respects young musicians from in-county schools. Now comes the formal announcement: handpicked talents will play two free concerts. Public invited.

Committeeman Bill Jackson put out the wire during a restaurant chat several months ago. "Joe Green's a good man," Bill said. "The entire structure of our education outreach will take on a new look."

The festival, designed as a teaching non-profit, pays clinicians to supplement jazz instruction at schools throughout the county. These pros nominated more than two dozen students for an Honors Band. And this gang will work out in concert at Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall (Room M1) the evening of April 18. Next night as well — Pacific Grove Middle School. Both events kick off at seven o'clock; guitarist Bruce Forman will be guest artist for both. The whole's called Jazz Pizazz Week.

Joe's an accountant. He was up to his eyeballs in other people's tax returns. Information came through committee member Ruth Fenton and festival spokesman Paul Fingerote. Let's take the attractive offerings one at a time:

April 18 — Don Schamber of Monterey Peninsula College directs the Honors Band and has been conducting rehearsals. Also performing will be bands from Carmel High, Monterey High, Seaside High, Pacific Grove High, North Monterey County High, possibly King City High. KRML Jazz Radio will record honors players for broadcast the following Saturday afternoon (Monterey Jazz Festival the sponsor).

April 19 — Younger musicians get their shot. Carmel Middle School, Walter Colton, Robert Louis Stevenson, North Monterey County Elementary Schools. As said: Honors Band and Bruce here too.

Lest we forget. Festival honcho Jimmy Lyons always has spoken of the student program as his favorite part. Late jazz critic Ralph Gleason, who helped Jimmy shape the fest vision, wrote with tremendous intelligence about youth movements in music.

Lots of names, but young life surely deserves the space. Honors Band nominees:

Trumpets — Dan Trammell (North Monterey County), Christine Payne (North Monterey), Dan Marks (RLS), Joe Manilli (RLS), Matt Sever (Pacific Grove), Brian Bebermeyer (Monterey High).

Trombones — Johnny Jenson (North Monterey), William Nibbelin (North Monterey), Randy Foy (RLS), Ramiro Padilla (North Salinas High), Rob Whiteside (RLS), Henry Koh (Monterey High).

Alto — Jason Silzle (Pacific Grove), Eric Rasmussen (Seaside), Mike Russo (RLS), Dylan O'Neil (North Monterey County).

Tenor — Donna Medranno (North Monterey), Eric Magnus (Pacific Grove).

Baritone — Jeff Maxson (Pacific Grove), Kenny Smith (Seaside).

Drums — Mike Shannon (Carmel), Andy Coleman (Pacific Grove).

Bass — Rebecca Griffin (RLS), Eris Frohlich (Monterey).

Piano — Ed Mendenhall (RLS), Matt Sagen (Carmel High).

Guitar — Carl Jordan (RLS).

Vibes — Yostein Berntsen (North Monterey County).

Mendenhall and Silzle made the statewide Fest High School All-Stars last time. MJF Education Coordinator Stella LePine compiled the honors roster and got it out and about. Jazz Pizazz Week couldn't happen well without the creative cooperation of jazz educators at the various schools. For the sheer heck of it:

Rich Robins (Carmel High), Karen King (Carmel Middle), Steve Clickard (Pacific Grove High), Bryan Handley (King Middle), Peggy Carroll (Washington Junior High in Salinas), Robbie Stange (Monterey High), Brad Gronroos (North Salinas High), Phil Snyder (North County Elementary Schools), Rob Klevan (RLS), Howard Rappaport (Seaside High), Liz Donovan (Walter Colton), Gary Stotz (Pacific Grove Middle), Les Rose (King City High), D.L. Johnson (North Monterey County High).

Right on.

CURRENT NEWSLETTER of the national Jazz Journalists Association carries responses to a particular question. Should jazz periodicals cover the rap scene? My comments within those pages:

Doing poetry workshops for street kids taught me over the years that young folks often will employ classic techniques — metaphor extension, imagery right out of Ashanti hunt songs — before knowing the names of such time-honored elements. Schools forget that poetry, like jazz, projects body discoveries (our in-common rhythmning) onto experience.

Heartbeat = backbeat = iambic foot. African drum masters tell seekers: Go sit in the forest for some months and find out what you sound like.

All this speaks to the point of jazz journals covering rap acts. It's already commonplace to note rap's familial links to the griot (wandering storyteller), Sanctified ring shout, talking blues. Of course rappers deserve coverage in thoughtful periodicals — by writers who have an overview of the oral tradition.

To simply review rap albums ain't the job. The job's hearing and saying how Queen Latifah (today challenging male dominance within rap craft) seems to know in her bones what Lady Day and Aretha knew about breath and heartbeat and how words are meaty motional signals from the insides of womanly urban being.

One large point would be to turn rap buffs onto their real positioning in the larger tradition. Many high school people now call bebop and even post-bop inventions "the old music." For them, the work done by Pops Armstrong may not even exist. How sad.

As with all real coverage in jazz journals, then, the rap reviewer must love the stuff and thereby expose the continuum that already exists. As Ralph Gleason told me a half million years ago: "If you don't love, go do something less important."

Rap's already into its second decade. The best of the groups know that raw energy ain't enough — that they have a creative situation on their hands. We jazz writers come late to this question of whether rappers deserve space in "our" publications.

Maybe the real question is: Who among us sees/hears truly? I don't think this can be a secondary assignment that one takes on for the extra bread or byline. Oya (Yoruba goddess of lightning) really does live in the work of groups like De La Soul and A Tribe Called Quest.

Support for molestation survivors

A new group is now forming for adult women who were molested as children. Group therapy is led by Judy Masliyah, M.A, M.F.C.C., and Kathy Weller, M.A., M.F.C.C. intern.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Before the revolution

LES LIAISONS Dangereuses by Christopher Hampton opened at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center last week. The play is based on the epistolary novel of the same name by Choderlos de Lacios. This extraordinary Frenchman was an artillery officer who became a Jacobin General and figured importantly in the Revolution.

De Lacios captured the atmosphere of the cynical seduction of youth and innocence that seems to have been the prime activity of the French aristocracy of the time. In doing so, he also created two memorable figures, Vicomte de Valmont and Marquise de Merteuil, to personify the corruption.

The main force of the play lies in their mesmerizing duel of wits. These two have been lovers in the past but, being promiscuous and knowing the other to be also, they have decided, instead, to be friends. Friends, that is, who share stories of their boudoir conquests and compare strategies on difficult victims. They inevitably begin to wager on the outcome of their excapades. Not being of the highest character, they don't always honor their debts.

This creation of an evenly matched male/female friend/foe love/hate system of dualities in the erotic arena is a powerful construct. I believe this is why de Laclos is still known today. His characters have transcended time and place. Indeed, there are two films and this play, based on de Laclos' slim volume, that have been enjoying popularity in recent years. He seems to have touched an eternal nerve.

Christopher Hampton has taken these characters and brought them believably to the stage. Hampton, not known much over here, is quite famous in his native England. He has written many plays and was resident dramatist at the Royal Court Theater. One of his aims, he says, has also been to provide modern, actable versions of continental classics. He certainly has accomplished that here.

The star of the show is Dorian Ellis as Merteuil. Her controlled contempt and seething sensuality keep her at psychological "stage center" whenever she appears. Stephen Moorer is the leering Valmont, conqueror and victim in one. His palpable chagrin as he passes from the former to the latter is very well realized.

Florence Larsen is back better than ever as the Mme. de Rosemonde, Valmont's aunt. Julie Hughett is GroveMont's Business Manager and, as such, living proof of the left/right brain theory. When she takes her green eyeshade off, she gives us very fine performances, indeed. As Mlle. de Tourvel, she starts with high ideals but has them undermined by the crafty (and patient) Valmont. When she succumbs, she is discarded, of course. But then it gets complicated. Julie handles each phase with such consummate skill and energy that it can make your spine tingle.

The supporting staff is strong as well. Jessica Ann Stevenson as Cecile Volange, gives us a suitably ingenuous ex-novice eager to drop her nun's robes and get into the fray. Ron Cohen, who has played many leading roles, gives the overseer Azolan suitable strength of bearing.

Gina Ferrari plays the sassy Emilie who provides some unfettered energy in spots where it is needed. Brian Huntington, fresh from his excellent performance in El Salvador gives us the youthful Chevalier Danceny, whose movement from naive observer to player is swift. Lastly, a welcome to newcomer Cheryl Haley, who plays Mme. de Volanges. Cheryl has come to Monterey from eight years as a psychotherapist in New York City. It will be interesting to see what effect that will have on the local theater community.

Liaisons is directed by Mickie Mosley Moorer, actress, director, and Jill of all theatrical trades. Mickie strikes a balance between the strategic and salacious needs of the plot. The erotic is evoked by a few discrete but telling gestures. The pace is right and with so many scenes, it has to be.

Only at the end, when the only exterior scene is called for, do things become a little unraveled. After 16 interior scenes, it's hard to believe we're suddenly in the Bois de Vincennes. When the fog machine came on, some people near it in the audience started coughing. The confusion was minimal but could have been avoided.

The set is superb. Faux marble, paintings, drapery, furniture — all work well. The paintings are on silk so that, when backlit, they become transparent and serve as windows to interior passages — a striking effect.

Steve Judge gets kudos for both set design and lighting. Costumes are better than usual for a period production. It's glamour on the surface, but it's mean underneath. This play is for those who have no qualms staring at predatory behavior of libertines. If you don't have the stomach for this kind of thing, take a pass. On the other hand, if studying the societal pathology of the times that preceded, and in some ways, brought on the French Revolution, interests you, you will probably find this a fascinating work, as I did.

Liaisons plays at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays; 7 p.m. Sundays. The Cafe is open one hour before show time.

CECILE VOLANGE (Jessica Ann Stevenson), the Marquise de Merteuil (Dorian Ellis) and Madame de Volanges (Cheryl Haley) share the stage in the GroveMont Theater Arts Center production of Christopher Hampton's Les Liaisons Dangereuses.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 7 p.m. Sundays until May 5. One Sunday matinee has been scheduled for 2 p.m. April 22.

A Fool's Paradise

There's arsenic, there's old lace, but in this classic English melodrama, it's an evil wife attempting to do in her wealthy husband because she loves another. Not to fear, "good" triumphs over evil in the end in A Fool's Paradise.

This 19th century classic is presented at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

Works by Berry, Faris teamed at Evans Gallery

ARTISTS CAROLYN Berry of Monterey and Marjorie Faris of Palo Alto will present their work in a two-woman show in the Marjorie Evans Gallery during the month of April.

Carolyn Berry has exhibited her art widely, both in the United States and foreign countries. Locally her work has been on display at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the Cherry Foundation, the Pacific Grove Art Center and the Museum of Natural History in Pacific Grove.

Berry received her B.A. degree in painting from the University of Missouri and has studied at Columbia College in Missouri, Humboldt University, U.C. Berkeley and Santa Cruz, and Monterey Peninsula College.

She was executive director of Handicapped Activities Unlimited from 1971 to 1988. She has also served as their art director.

In 1987, she taught "The Art of the Book" at MPC. Berry is listed in "Who's Who in American Art" as well as other art directories.

Marjorie Faris received her B.S. degree from California State University at Hayward and lived in the Middle East for a period of time and has traveled widely.

Exhibitions of Faris' art have appeared throughout the Central California region. In relating her feelings for art, Faris says "Essentially I paint out of a love for it, a love for the art others have already created and to see what will happen. Knowing that some of what I have done has a life of its own, makes me deeply happy."

The two-woman show will be exhibited through April 27. The Marjorie Evans Gallery is located in Carmel's Sunset Cultural Center on San Carlos Street and is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is no admission charge.

Abstract images

HAT* by Al Belson is among the images included in the "Abstracts" photography show now featured at the Photographic Center in Carmel. The images were culled from a call-for-entries that elicited interest from as far away as France. The exhibit remains on view through May 13. The Photographic Center is open 1 to 5 p.m. daily and is located in Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. For details, call 625-5181.

Cycling tour encompasses coast

MONTEREY PENINSULA College Community Services will offer a grand cycling tour of the Central California's scenic coast this summer. The six-day journey from Monterey to Santa Barbara will begin July 30, with the group returning to Monterey via van on Aug. 4.

David Shipnuck and Paul Aschenbrenner, experienced bicyclists who have toured the Pacific Coast and many other regions by bicycle extensively, will lead the group.

Tour participation is limited to 16 persons who must have the ability to negotiate an average of 45 to 55 miles per day on bicycle. Prospective riders should keep in mind that the coastal route includes several areas with large differences in elevation.

Deadline for applications is April 15. A deposit of $150 per person will secure space on the tour. Final payments are due no later than June 10.

Total tour price of $560 per person includes five nights of motel accommodations with double occupancy, transportation of personal belongings and comprehensive support services with two vans, lunch each day on the tour, and the services of the tour leaders.

Participants will attend briefings and get-acquainted sessions on Sunday, July 29. The first day's journey on Monday will take the group to Big Sur. Following nights will be spent at Cambria, Pismo Beach, Buellton and Santa Barbara.

For more information about the tour, contact Monterey Peninsula College Community Services, 646-4051 or 545-4052.

Welcome to the Monterey Bay Area...Home of the California Sea Otter

No visit to the Monterey Bay Area is complete without a glimpse of this smallest of marine mammals.

Sea otters spend their lives in nearshore coastal waters where they sleep at the surface, often anchored in a drift of kelp. Groups of otters are called "rafts" because from a distance they look like small logs floating on the sea.

One of the few members of the animal kingdom to use a tool, an otter will place a rock on its chest as an anvil upon which to break open its shellfish prey. Mothers can often be seen sculling along on their backs with a small furry pup aboard.

Unlike seals and whales which have layers of blubber to keep them warm in cold ocean waters, the sea otters rely on their thick fur coats, which they spend many hours grooming every day. An oil spill which could damage their fur, causing the animals to die from exposure, is the greatest threat to their existence.

After the fur trade of the 18th and 19th centuries, sea otters were thought to be extinct in California. But a tiny band survived off the Big Sur Coast. Today otters can be found off San Luis Obispo, Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, yet they still number fewer than 1,400 animals. A "Threatened Species," the California sea otter is protected by state and federal law.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home — whether it be for six months or the whole year — while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home.

Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.

Welcome a French student

A group of 30 French students and their teacher/chaperone will visit Northern California for a four-week home stay this summer, July 6 through Aug. 3. The visit is sponsored by Nacel Cultural Exchanges, a non-profit group.

All of the students speak English, and they are coming to California to learn about American family life. Students bring their own spending money, and the program provides insurance. They may accompany host families if travel is planned during the stay.

Anyone interested in hosting a student may contact Ruby Gore, area coordinator for Nacel, at 356-1247.

Pleasureful dining awaits at peninsula restaurants

Carmel

Owned and operated by Bay View Properties, Sassy's and Cafe Beach offer some of the finest dining on the Monterey Peninsula.

Sassy's, located at the Carmel Mission Inn, serves the only Kansas City-style ribs in the area, while Cafe Beach, located at the Monterey Beach Hotel, offers up only the finest fish and pasta.

Both restaurants operate in-house bakeries and provide nightly entertainment. Dinner is served between 5 and 10 p.m.

For more information call 624-1841 or 394-3321.

Under the ownership of Remo d'Agliano, Raffaello has gained a well-earned reputation for Italian haute cuisine served in a quiet, romantic atmosphere.

Featuring homemade pasta, freshly caught fish, chicken, a variety of veal dishes and homemade desserts, Raffaello offers complete dinners as well as a la carte.

Raffaello is open from 6 to 10 p.m. daily except Tuesday and is located south of Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Phone 624-1541.

Begin your meal with a choice of more than 20 styles of sushi and continue on by selecting one of the delicious entrees, all prepared by Hiro, who has been cooking Japanese food for more than 20 years.

Hamaichi is open for lunch Monday through Friday and daily for dinner 5:30 to 10 p.m. It is located on Dolores Street near Fifth. Phone 625-3931.

Toast of the Town

Legend has it that Carmel residents meet at La Playa to toast our town. Join us during Sunset Hour for cocktails and complimentary hors d'oeuvres (hot dishes, meats, cheeses and fruits.) Or enjoy fresh salads and a light dinner menu until 11:00 p.m. in the cocktail lounge — a quiet, cozy, comfortable place to meet— just a stroll away. Don't overlook the familiar face of Spyglass at La Playa — grand, inviting and very Carmel.

At the Whaling Station Inn Restaurant we brought mesquite grilled steaks, fish, and poultry to the Monterey Peninsula in 1973. We still use this method of cooking today. It's healthy, natural and gives everything we cook our own special flavor. Our pasta is made fresh daily in our own kitchens. The vegetables are garden fresh. Our seafood is caught locally. The food we can't get or make locally is air-freighted in everyday. The portions are full and the atmosphere is warm and romantic. Tonight eat where locals and visitors alike have been dining for the past seventeen years.

At the Oyster Bar you'll sit at a counter of fine marble embraced by blue and white checkerboard tiles and brass railings while perusing a menu featuring their famous clam chowder and Lazyman's Cioppino; shrimp and crab Louie; steamed clams, mussels, lobster, prawns, and Dungeness crab; shrimp and scallop linguine; and All-American burgers and sandwiches. The Seafood Grill goes another step further and adds fried, sauteed and grilled fish, from shark to sole to salmon and a variety of pastas. To find the restaurant, just follow the crowd, they're probably headed there too! — on Sixth between Dolores and San Carlos. Lunch and dinner from 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Visa and MasterCard; 625-1500.

Located adjacent to the U.S. Post Office in downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea, Friar Tuck's provides an atmosphere similar to an old-time coffee shop.

Locals gather mornings to enjoy the restaurant's 14 styles of omelettes, which include the Friar Tuck's made with turkey, cheese, tomatoes and Hollandaise sauce and the Monterey with ham, guacamole, tomato and sour cream.

Friar Tuck's was recently voted to have the best hamburger in Carmel and features an extensive array of hamburger concoctions.

Hours are 6:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. daily, with breakfast served until 11:30 a.m. and on Sunday until noon. Phone 624-4274.

For a taste of traditional Mexican cuisine served in a casual, relaxed setting, stop into Pablo's of Carmel.

Specializing in fresh seafood and innovative menu items such as seafood quesadillas with crab and shirmp, and pollo asados made of boneless chicken which is marinated and then char-broiled, Pablo's uses only healthy ingredients and fries its chips in peanut oil.

Pablo's of Carmel is open from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and is located under the windmill in The Barnyard. Phone 624-1446.

Where else but in Carmel would you find an authentic English-Irish-American restaurant featuring "pub grub?" It's Bud's Pub, a near-legend among Carmel eateries, that's where.

Open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 a.m., the cozy oak-paneled restaurant tucked into Su Vecino Court (near Dolores and Sixth), features such authentic British Isles fare as shepherd's pie, steak and kidney pie, bangers and mash, fish and chips, as well as an All-American favorite with a twist: Bud's Famous Mini-Burgers.

OWNERS SUSAN and Tim Stroud welcome diners to The Fondue Chalet, located at 1199 Forest Ave., Suite 2, in Pacific Grove. Open for dinner every day except Sunday, the Fondue Chalet serves a wide variety of fondues, including cheese, seafood, vegetable and beef bourguignonne. Complete your meal with a tempting dessert fondue of white and dark chocolate. Reservations are suggested. Call 375-3796.

Scrumptious homemade desserts are baked daily and a full bar dispenses spirits until 2 a.m. Drop by a true Carmel institution. Visa and MasterCard accepted. Phone 625-6765.

For a true Mexican dining experience, try El Topo in Carmel, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth avenues. You won't find hot dogs or hamburgers on their menu, they're not trying to be everything to everyone, just a source for good, quality Mexican food that has been carefully prepared for the past 14 years by the same two chefs under the same owner — that's consistency, especially in Carmel's fickle restaurant atmosphere.

Specialties include chili rellenos, tostadas, tacos, enchiladas, fajitas and their highlight — a chile verde brimming with fresh pork and hot spices. Also, while there, ask for their award-winning wine margarita cocktail. They're open from 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. for lunch and dinner. Menu items also available to go. Visa and MasterCard accepted, and reservations recommended on weekends. 624-7388.

Relax in the luxury of Carmel's La Playa Hotel and enjoy a meal at Spyglass, where the roar of the surf can be heard in the distance.

La Playa features traditional breakfasts. Lunch and dinners feature such entrees as medallions of veal with fresh thyme and whole-grain mustard sauce and panache of fresh seafood in a lobster sauce served over angel hair pasta.

Across the hall, the Pub serves sandwiches and clam chowder.

Spyglass is open from 7 a.m., while the Pub is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. La Playa is located at Eighth and Camino Real. Phone 624-6476.

Monterey

A great view doesn't always compensate for a weak menu, but when you can meld a great view with great food, then you've got something.

Well, Kiewel's Cafe in Heritage Harbor has the Right Stuff: a panoramic view of Monterey Bay and an extensive menu that has been getting raves, including a top rating from a local reviewer.

The menu runs the gamut — from seafood, grilled steaks and barbecued ribs to pasta, salads, soups and sandwiches, something to please even the pickiest of diners, all done in what might be termed a "new California" style. The roasted pork loin with mashed potatoes and gravy has become a local favorite.

In addition, every Sunday (9 a.m. to 3 p.m.), features a brunch on the outdoor patio to the sounds of a live jazz band. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, 5 to 9 p.m. Sunday. Beer and wine; Visa, Master Card; 372-6950.

The Clock Garden Restaurant at 565 Abrego in Monterey is a well-known place for locals to meet over cocktails and lunch, being that it's nearly in the heart of downtown Monterey.

But what may not be known is that "The Clock" is justifiably proud of its Early Bird dinners, served from 4 to 6 p.m. Rock cod, calamari, roast turkey and leg of lamb are offered daily at low prices ranging from $6.95 to $8.95. And that includes a choice of their famous Greek lemon soup, salad or half an artichoke.

Full dinners include such delicacies as spare ribs with honey/soy sauce, shrimp fettuccine, and Crocked Chicken Castroville, a chicken breast braised with artichokes and cream sauce. Evenings from 10 to 11:30 feature their late night specials — everything from burgers to Reuben sandwiches. All that can be experienced at their cozy — and warm, thanks to heaters and a fire pit — outdoor patio. A Sunday brunch is also offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Full bar, all major credit cards. 375-6100.

FOR SEAFOOD with an Italian touch and a great view to boot, try Wharfside Restaurant & Lounge, located on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Their specialty, in addition to the cioppino and bouillabaise, is mixing fresh seafood and homemade pasta into a delectable dish. In addition, Wharfside features seven different raviolis, including the latest — squid ravioli — as well as pizzas and calzones (also available to go). Add to that a panoramic view of the harbor and the marina, a choice from the wine list (or full bar), dessert, coffee and a cordial, and your evening is complete. Open daily for dinner, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. (lunch until 4 p.m.), with a Monday through Friday happy hour with complimentary hors d'oeuvres from 4 to 6 p.m. American Express, MasterCard and Visa accepted. 375-3956.

CALIFORNIA CUISINE, from omelettes to burgers and steak and lobster is what awaits you at Bullwacker's Restaurant and Pub, located in the historic Bear Flag Building at 653 Cannery Row in Monterey. They've also just installed a sumptuous all-you-can-eat salad bar that, at only $6.50, must be the bargain on The Row. Early dinners are also offered at a low price — $6.95 — Sunday through Friday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. But Bullwacker's entire menu is served from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., so no need to check your watch to see whether it's time for breakfast, lunch or dinner! Children and light menus are also available as well as outdoor patio dining. All major credit cards are accepted and there is a full bar. Call 373-1353.

There are at least a dozen Japanese restaurants on the Monterey Peninsula, but only one of them offers this unique item: an all-you-can-eat, serve-yourself Japanese buffet featuring fresh sushi, teriyaki and tempura.

That would be Miyuki Sushi in the Del Monte Shopping Center between Lucky and Thrifty. In addition to the buffet, which also features daily specials, you can choose from a wide variety of authentic Japanese dishes — from seafood to sukiyaki — from their regular menu. Top that off with a cold Sapporo beer or other imported and domestic beers and wines from their menu.

When it comes to homemade Italian-style pizza, locals on the Monterey Peninsula usually offer one word: Gianni's.

Gianni's Pizza, the family-owned pizzeria located since 1974 at 725 Lighthouse Ave. in New Monterey, starts out with fresh, handmade dough, Italian-style tomato sauce and more than a dozen fresh ingredients to choose from. Gianni's has expanded its menu to include fresh pastas, from fettucine alfredo to spaghetti and meat balls, all to be topped off with a wide array of desserts, with the specialty a homemade cannoli that's to die for.

The homey, family-style atmosphere is conducive to couples as well as large families — it seats up to 210 people! There's also a full bar, with espresso and cappucino. Of course virtually everything is offered for takeout or to enjoy there. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 4 to 11 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to midnight; and Sunday, 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Call ahead for quicker takeout service. No credit cards. 649-1500.

Hot and spicy dishes are their specialty, from spare ribs and chicken to fish. And if fiery fish is to your liking, the Szechuan-style whole fish (usually just-caught rock cod fresh from Fisherman's Wharf), may just fit the bill. The whole fish is also available sweet and non-spicy. Other unique favorites not found on other Chinese menus include Beef Sizzling Plate (an unusual barbecued beef dish), noodle soup in choice of beef, chicken, vegetable or shrimp, and special combination lunches that feature fried rice, chow mein, egg roll and choice of sweet and sour pork or almond chicken. They're open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wine and beer, food to go available; Visa and MasterCard. 375-3000.

Ever have a craving for breakfast in the middle of the day and couldn't figure out where to go? Kathy's, at 700 Cass St. in Monterey, may be just the ticket because they serve breakfast all day — 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

And if you just happen to prefer lunch, they can do that for you too — with a flair. Kathy's has two homemade soup specials every day, with Thursday's unique and spicy Taco Soup a particular favorite of the regulars. In addition to a full breakfast menu, they have cold and grilled sandwiches, hamburgers, and salads.

And on weekends, breakfast specials offer such tantalizing items as huevos rancheros, biscuits and gravy, and Eggs Florentine. Call them at 647-9540 or drop by, they're just around the corner from the Monterey Post Office.

It's not so unusual that great homemade Mexican food can be found in an elegant old Monterey Victorian, after all Monterey's history is steeped in the Hispanic culture. Consuelo's, located in the grand Victorian at 361 Lighthouse Ave. in New Monterey, prides itself on serving authentic homemade south-of-the-border specialties such as fajitas, carnitas, chile rellenos, and char-broiled steaks.

In addition Consuelo's is justifiably famous for being the "home of the Gold Margarita," a cold and frothy concoction enlivened by Sauza Gold tequila.

The menu is served from 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, extended to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday; with a Sunday brunch — served on the outdoor patio if you desire — from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Sunday dinner offered to 9 p.m. Al major credit cards accepted. 372-8111.

Samples from the dinner menu include barbecued chicken and ribs (such as the fiery Three-Alarm Barbecued Ribs), bacon-wrapped filet, grilled salmon, New York peppered steak, and fresh pasta specials. A full bar and cocktail lounge will also help quench the driest of thirsts.

Monterey Firehouse is located at 414 Calle Principal in Monterey. Lunch is served 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday; dinner 5-10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and until 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday. All major credit cards accepted. 649-3016.

Seaside

What else would you call a restaurant featuring home-cooked Southern food owned and operated by a mother of seven children and 14 grandchildren?

Well, Laverne Hall thought Mom's Home Cooking fit the bill and it does: with down-home treats such as pecan and sweet potato pie, peach cobbler, barbecued spare ribs, chittlins, collard greens and black-eyed peas, what else would you call it?

Family-owned and operated, Mom's Home Cooking features Laverne as chief cook and bottle washer — and she has been at it for more than 13 years. She also serves seafood and has a jukebox on the premises because "it goes with lickin' your fingers."

For a Southern, soul-style treat try Mom's, 1287 Fremont Blvd. in Seaside, open 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 3 to 9 p.m. Sunday and Monday. Food to go and beer and wine available. Leave your credit at home, but come with a big appetite. 394-9191.

The Fishwife serves only the freshest fish prepared in a healthy manner, avoiding any grease or heavy sauces. Reasonably priced, The Fishwife features English sole, red snapper, calamari, salmon, halibut, scallops and oysters — that's not to mention creative appetizers and homemade desserts.

If it's soup you're looking for, The Fishwife prepares gumbo, clam chowder, black bean and lobster bisque.

The Fishwife is open 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday and is located at 789 Trinity Ave. in Seaside. Phone 394-2027.

SPIRITED MEXICAN entrees are served in a sunny atmosphere at Pueblo del Mar. Experience the warmth of Mexico during lunch or dinner. The restaurant is located on Junipero between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel-by-the-Sea. For reservations, call 624-9210.

Ichi-Riki Japanese Restaurant has perhaps the largest sushi bar (seating two dozen), on the Monterey Peninsula, but they haven't stopped there. They recently added a new cocktail lounge with a full bar and have set aside two sections to the ever-increasing restaurant — smoking and non-smoking.

In addition there's the popular Japanese-style tatami rooms as well as regular Western-style restaurant seating. Add to that two full-time sushi chefs, a full Japanese menu ranging from teriyaki to sukiyaki, and karaoke singing on Saturday nights and you have all the makings for a Japanese-style night on the town.

The sushi bar's open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and until midnight Friday and Saturday. American Express, Master Card and Visa accepted. They're at 1603 Del Monte Blvd. in Seaside. 394-7733.

PERFECT FOR EASTER DINNER

FOOD

To describe the food at Los Hermanos Restaurant, we've created a completely new category of cuisine. We call it Si Food. It starts with authentic, traditional Mexican recipes handed down from generation to generation—homemade with the finest quality ingredients. Next add freshly caught seafood from our own Monterey Bay—delicately prepared to perfection. Finish it off with a refreshing Cuervo Gold margarita or a selection from the extensive list of imported Mexican beers found at Lalo's Cantina. That's SI Food. But no description can compare with the genuine item. Join us at Los Hermanos and taste Mexican food like you've never tasted it before.
